Police Say Husband
Killed Wife, Self;
Note Is Clew

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—
"Dear Ida:

"Please forgive me for
what I have done. This is the best way out. Your dad,
"Eugene."

This note, found in a Jamaica rooming house, beside four .38-calibre shells, was believed to have solved the mystery today of how Mrs. Frances Kirkwood Van Clief met
death with Eugene Van Clief.

The woman, who once was tried for stabbing to death her second husband, was herself murdered by
her third spouse, who then shot
himself after a protracted quarrel
over her jealousy of him, police
believe.

This theory, police held after discovery of the note, is the undoubted solution of the tangled death trail, which first led toward the women, then toward an unidentified
third person; then finally ended at Van Clief's door. The note is believed to be intended for Ida Morris, a child by a former marriage.

The murder and suicide was believed to have come as the climax
to a quarrel over Mrs. Van Clief's 26th birthday party.

It was then she returned home and found his wife with a
girl and two other men.

The girl, a cabaret entertainer,
told police that Mrs. Van Clief had
a premonition of tragedy before
her husband's arrival.

Mrs. Van Clief achieved nationwide notoriety several years ago
at her trial for murder of her husband, Dr. Glenn B. Kirkwood, veterinarian and radio announcer. It was then she earned the descriptive phrase by which she was widely
known—"the tiger woman."

Police last night attributed the murder to Mrs. Van Clief because
the revolver was found near her right hand. A more careful analysis of the death scene revealed,
however, that Van Clief had apparently shot her through the head,
and then turned the gun on his own head.

The note addressed to "Ida," was
held as substantiation of this.

Mrs. Van Clief's first husband was John A. MacAvoy, a rug designer. She divorced him and married Dr. Kirkwood, a veterinarian
and radio lecturer. He was stabbed with a carving knife in the Kirkwood home, Queens, in August, 1928. Mrs. Van Clief said he had fallen on the knife during a quarrel.

After her acquittal Mrs. Van
Clief said she was through with
"men for life" but she married
Van Clief, cafe owner, last October.

MAN PERISHES AS HOME BURNS

PENNSGROVE, N. J., Aug. 28.—
Salvatore Martelli, 47, lost his life
when flames destroyed his home
and his wife was severely burned
today.

Martelli was the father of nine children. His body was found in
a doorway leading to his children's room. His wife, Jacinto, 45, is in a serious condition in the Wilmington General Hospital.

The woman was injured, when
she leaped from the second story
of their home. She suffered a fractured leg and severe burns about
the body.

FOURTEEN DEAD IN BRITISH HEAT WAVE

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Fourteen
persons are dead throughout Britain today as the result of a terrific
heat wave, which followed close
on the heels of winter storms
which lashed the coast and caused
heavy damage to shipping.

The thermometer hovered around
92 degrees, an almost unprecedented head for this country, and there
was no immediate hope of relief.

THIN PEOPLE PREFER FUNERALS

Thin people get the most fun out of funerals, according to Dr.
L. Logan Clendenning, author of "The Human Body," the most popular medical book of the century, and writer of "Diet and Health" for
THE GAZETTE.

"Fat people are more likely to be able to accomplish their tasks more easily," says Dr. Clendenning. "Therefore they are cheerful, jovial, get through with their work in a few hours, look back on it with pleasure and are ready to begin a party at halfpast four. They like marriage feasts and christenings.

"The thin ones like divorces and funerals; you will find them
comforting the misunderstood wives or arranging the flowers. The heavy ones like poker; the thin ones solitaire."

FACES LIFE TERM

Conviction of the kidnapping
charge filed against Claude Dill-
ner, 27, accused abductor of 10-
year-old Betty Ann Foster of Val-
paraiso, Ind., carries a mandatory
penalty of life imprisonment in
jail at Valparaiso, has indicated
he will probably plead guilty. The girl was found, unharmed, with the
farm hand at Elkhorn, Wis. /

PONDER SUCCESSOR TO GOVERNOR YOUNG OF RESERVE BOARD

Robinson And Dawes Being Suggested For Appointment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Henry
M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker
and friend of President Hoover,
and Henry Dawes, of Chicago, brother of Ambassador Charles G.
Dawes, were being prominently
mentioned today to succeed Roy
A. Young, of Minneapolis, whose resignation as governor of the federal reserve board was accepted
by the president late yesterday.

Young, who will relinquish office
Monday, will become governor of
the federal reserve bank at Boston. It was stated at the White House.

In accepting the resignation,
President Hoover praised Young's
record, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon likewise paid tribute to Young's ability and his administration.

As governor of the reserve
board Young's salary was $12,000,
and his reason to Mr. Hoover for resigning was that he must increase his income. His salary as governor of the reserve bank at Minneapolis, his last private post,
was said to have been three times
that of the government post. While his salary at Boston was not announced, it is understood to be far
in excess of $12,000.

ROBINS AND GIANTS TANGLE IN SERIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Robins and Giants tangle here this afternoon in the second of that all-important series which may decide second place in the National League and figure, too, in the pennant winning, if the Cubs continue
to lose.

William Watson Clark, who
argued himself out of the game
yesterday, may start again today
for the flock, opposing Hubbell.

Heavy hitting won for Brooklyn
in the four-game series opener, 7
to 2.

AMERICAN GUNBOAT EXCHANGES MACHINE GUN SHOTS WITH REDS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—A fifteen-minute machine gun
duel between Chinese Reds and the American gunboat Panay
shattered the rural quiet of Wusueh, Hupeh province, today.

Although hundreds of bullets hummed through the air
no casualties were known to have occurred on either side.
The Panay continued her voyage to Hankow and Shanghai
after the skirmish.

In Hunan province, meanwhile, Communists again appeared within ten miles of Changsha, slowly advancing towards the city.

SWEDES WILL SEND GUNBOAT TO RETURN EXPLORERS' BODIES

Same Boat Started Them
On Ill-Fated Expedition

LONDON, Aug. 28.—A dramatic tribute was paid to the first martyrs of polar explorations today
when the Swedish government ordered the gunboat Svenskund to proceed to Tromsø, Norway, to
bring back to Sweden the bodies
of Salomon Auguste Andree and his
two companions.

Thirty-three years ago, this same
ship proudly carried the three adventurous explorers to Spitzbergen,
from where a balloon was to carry them on their attempted flight
across the top of the world.

The gunboat will await arrival
at Tromsø of the sealing ship
Bratvaag, which suspended sealing
operations in order to deliver the
bodies, equipment and precious
diary of Andree to a waiting world. The bodies and expedition remains will be placed aboard the gunboat after brief ceremonies at Tromsø and will be transferred
to Stockholm. A national reception is being prepared by Sweden.

According to reports received
here, the Norwegian naval fishery
inspection ship Michaelaers will leave Tromsø Monday with a
group of Swedish embalming specialists aboard. They will meet the Bratvaag at sea and embalm the bodies of the three explorers to assure preservation.

Several other vessels bearing
newspaper correspondents and photographers also left port seeking
the Bratvaag in order to secure information on the discovery from
Dr. G. Horn and his companions.

CAPTAIN GOES DOWN AFTER CREW SAVED

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—They
were looking for the body of Captain Eber Estes today to give him
a true sailor's burial.

Estes went down with his ship,
the freighter Neches, after seeing
his twenty-four men rescued after
a collision with a steel scow in
the narrows off Fort Wadsworth.

Imprisoned behind a tangled
mass of tons of iron pipe which
was dislodged by the crash, the gallant skipper ordered off the
ship the last ten members of the
crew who attempted to free him.

Edward Carey, chief engineer,
told how he tried to unmesh the
captain from the network of knotted rigging and the pile of iron
pipe.

"He told me to never mind him
but to look out for myself," said
Carey. "The ship was sinking fast."

He said—Goodbye—and then I jumped.

"When the crash came the skipper didn't look out for himself. He was everywhere seeing that all the men were getting off."

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—An inquest
was begun today into a grade-crossing crash which took a toll of five
persons killed and two injured
when a freight train on the Indiana Harbor belt line demolished
an automobile last night.

The dead: Charles Cincenas,
driver; Mrs. Madeline Grozinski;
Mrs. Anna Sawicki, mother of three girls who were killed or injured; Emma Sawicki, 3; Olga Sawicki, 9. Ruth Sawicki, 8, was reported near death with a broken
back and fractured skull.

ALLEGED GAMBLERS ARRESTED IN RAIDS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—The names of fifty-six would-be gam-
blers will be conferred on a
yesterday in four raids on race
gambling establishments, were added to the police docket today, as
the cleanup campaign conducted
by Acting Police Chief George
eters, gamblers and other undesirables.

Charges of operating places for recording wagers were placed
against three of the men who were taken into custody yesterday. The remainder of the group were taken
to police station and released on waivers.

BANKER ACCUSED

Said to have confessed embezz-
ling $140,000 from the Northern Trust and Savings Bank of Hammond, Ind., and $71,000 from a loan
association of the same city, Bolshaw Salik (above), was held in bonds of $100,000. Salik is secretary and treasurer of the bank.

OHIO FARM BUREAU, GRANGE MEMBERS TO BE ALLOWED CREDIT

Immediate Relief Is Offered Through
BancOhio

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—Plans
to extend credit to drought stricken
members of the Ohio Farm Bureau
and the Grange were going forward
here today, following an announcement which was made yesterday
by C. A. Dyer, legislative representative of both organizations.

Dyer said that the farmer could
not wait on governmental action
and that immediate steps would be taken by the BancOhio Corporation
to relieve the farmer.

According to the new plan, paid-
up members of the Grange and Farm Bureau will be extended
credit on a six-month plan. "The
form of credit will be a note at 6
per cent for six months," Dyer
stated in making the announcement. "The notes must be signed
by three persons, at least two of
whom must be landowners."

The money loaned will not actually change hands, Dyer explained. The farmer will merely
give his note for things which he
purchases through the business
agents of either of the agricultural organizations. Two hundred thousand dollars is already available
under this new credit plan, Dyer
said.

CLASS TO GRADUATE

diplomas will be conferred on a
class of 179 graduates at the commencement exercises of Kent State
College which will be held tomorrow in the college auditorium, officials of the institution announced
today.

pectedly yesterday at the Epis-

TROOPS GUARD AGAINST COUP IN ARGENTINA

President Irigoyen Care-
Block Plot

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—
Extraordinary precautions
were taken today by the Argentina government to prevent a possible coup by political opponents of President Hipolito Irigoyen.

Machine guns and mounted
police carefully guarded all
approaches to the executive mansion, while officers were reported under orders to hold
troops in readiness for instant
action.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, President Irigoyen received the Argentine war minister at his private residence for a brief
urgent conference, after which all
members of the cabinet were summoned to the president's chambers.

News of the extraordinary meeting spread through the city and
large crowds gathered outside the
president's home during the early hours of the morning. The newspaper La Prensa, which gave first
details of the widespread military
preparations to stem a possible
coup, declared two trainloads of
troops were being held in readiness at La Plata, 30 miles distant,
for an immediate summons to Buenos Aires. At the moment of dispatching this message, there
were approximately 100 armed constables and a detachment of mounted police stationed in the vicinity
of President Irigoyen's home. It was reported the commanding officer of all regiments had been ordered to remain at their posts
pending developments.

It was unofficially stated the
preparations were taken partially
as a result of the strike of 3,000
employees of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company,
owing to fears opposition elements
might use this situation as a cover
for their activities.

LOVE THEFT SUIT ASKS $50,000

AKRON, O., Aug. 28.—Branding
the $50,000 love theft suit brought
against him by Mrs. Cora Breckenridge 26, ex-wife of Cecil Checken-
ridge, Ross Brothers Electric Co.
employee, as a "form of political
blackmail," Kyle Ross, state legislator, declared today that he "will
be prepared to deal with this ridiculous charge."

Mrs. Breckenridge's suit charges
that "false, scandalous, and de-flamatory" words used by Ross induced her husband to become alienated from her and to file suit
for divorce.

The petition also alleges that
Ross called on Mrs. Breckenridge
at her home in the absence of her husband and "wrongfully and maliciously attempted to induce
and induce her to have illicit relations with him."

Charging gross neglect, Brecken-
ridge was granted a divorce from
his wife on August 12. He was given the custody of their two
children, Kyle Ross Breckenridge,
5, and Ada May Breckenridge, 7.
The Breckenridges had been married eight years at the time of
their divorce.

SAILORS SAVED BY SWIMMING 8 HOURS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—
Three sailors from a foundered
ship staggered out of the surf here
today after swimming eight hours
from the time their lifeboat overturned.

Clad in tattered trousers and
shirts, the trio barely reached the
beach when their knees doubled
under them and they fell exhausted.

They were huskies from Halifax,
Nova Scotia, and told a tale of a
terrific storm and a sinking ship
with four other men aboard.

The men are John Larre, 24;
Clarence Atkinson, 27, and Freeman Bonbrury, 24, of the schooner Francis T.

GOVERNOR SLAIN

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—A
mob assassinated Governor Ricar-
do Luna of the province of Tacna
in Peru when he refused to offer
allegiance to the newly established
Lima government, according to reports received here.

PERU FUNCTIONS UNDER HEADS OF REVOLUTION

"Father of Revolt" Heads
In Charge

LIMA, Aug. 28.—Peru functioned
under a new government today,
headed by Lieutenant Colonel Luis Sanchez Cerro, "father of the Arequipa revolt."

Emulating King Carol of Rou-
mania by staging a spectacular arrival in the capital via airplane,
the country's "man of the hour"
gracefully accepted the wild ac-
claim and immediately assumed
charge of formation of a new government. Simultaneously, it became known that the junta earlier

in the day had resigned, leaving Peru temporarily without a guiding
head.

Cerro wasted no time in putting
forth his bid as the next strong
man of the republic by requesting
the oath of allegiance from all
army officers. This was pledged at a huge demonstration and gathering in the public square before the government buildings, where thousands sang and toasted the end of
the eleven-year "regime of terror."

Shortly after his installation as head of the state, Cerro issued a
manifesto promising the punishment of those "who have usurped
public funds" and appointed a ministry composed of military leaders
and civilians.

SMITH CONVICTION REVERSED BY ORDER OF APPEALS COURT

Ashtabula Slayer Wins
Point On Tech-
nicity

JEFFERSON, O., Aug. 28.—The
tide in the battle for the life of Tully Lafayette Smith, ex-trucking contractor of Ashtabula, who is now in Ohio penitentiary awaiting
execution for the murder of his
wife, today had turned in favor of
the convicted man, following the
reversal of the common pleas
court decision for conviction by the district court of appeals here yesterday.

Smith had the constitutional right to waive jury trial, the apellate court judges declared in handling down their decision. Instead,
Judge Charles R. Sargent of Ashtabula County common pleas court, declined to accept the waiver and ordered trial by jury. Smith was convicted July 18.

The possibility that the case will go to the Ohio supreme court loomed today, when County Prosecutor Howard M. Nazor announced that he would appeal to the higher court against the reversal of the
decision by the appellate court.

This appeal, it is understood,
would automatically halt the re-
trial which the reversal demands.
If the higher court upholds the reversal, retrial will be mandatory.

Smith's attorneys, Dennis T.
Dunlavy and Carey Sheldon, argued for the reversal of the conviction
before the court of appeals Monday. The decision was withheld until yesterday.

The two attorneys also will defend Mrs. Maude Lowther, 22,
quarter-blood Indian girl, in her
trial for the murder of Smith's wife, Clara, 28, next month. The state charges that Mrs. Lowther,
reputed paramour of Smith, fired
the shot that killed Mrs. Smith on
the lonely Saybrook Center Road,
near Ashtabula, last May 29.

FORMER XENIA GIRL IS PASSENGER WHEN TRUCK STRIKES BUS

Miss Geneva Smith Injured In Crash Near
Lebanon

Miss Geneva Smith, 25, Peebles,
O., former teacher in the first
grade at Central Building received
cuts and bruises when a Dayton, Lebanon and Cincinnati bus in-
which she was a passenger, was side-swiped by a Dayton Power and Light Co. truck between Dayton
and Lebanon Wednesday morning.

Miss Smith had spent several days
in this city as the guest of Dr. and
Mrs. Carl E. Wilkin, N. West St.,
and was on her way to Cincinnati
to meet her sister when the accident occurred.

Miss Virginia Stein, 21, Glencoe
Ave., Dayton, was the most seriously hurt of the passengers, receiving concussion of the brain, a fractured nose and lacerations on
the neck. Miss Edna Sumner, 26,
Park St., Dayton, suffered bruises
and abrasions about her body. The three young women were removed
to Blair Hospital, Lebanon, where
their injuries were treated. Miss Sumner was released from the hospital late Wednesday afternoon
and Miss Smith was expected to be removed from the hospital to her home in Peebles Thursday afternoon.

The accident occurred when the
bus, driven by Harold Aggar, attempted to pass the truck, which
contained a load of telephone
poles. As Aggar started around the truck one of the poles swerved and
rammed through the right side
where the three young women
were sitting.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 28.—Oscar Lendenick, 19, of Cleveland,
was seriously injured here today
when a roadster in which he was riding overturned after crashing
into another automobile. He was removed to Fairmount Hospital
where it was revealed he had received a fractured skull.

LACKED PATIENCE

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—
The story of a woman who waited forty-eight years — for the man who deserted her a year after their marriage — and then asked for a divorce, was written into court records here
today.

The court granted a divorce today to Mrs. Ida F. Klein, who said she was married September 27, 1881, at Defiance. The next year, her husband left her,
and forty-eight years of effort
to find him have proved futile,
she said.

The judge restored Mrs.
Klein's maiden name of Him-melbright.

Only the immediate families
of the bride and bridegroom
were present at the ceremony.
The bride was given away by
her brother-in-law, Charles Wickliffe Stevenson, of Cincinnati, a summer resident of Ruxton, Md. Mencken is 59 years old.

prised when it heard the cynical bachelor had decided to desert his brethren.

DENVER FACTORY IS SWEEPED BY CHLORINE AS EMPLOYEES FLEE

Entire Fire Company
Gassed; Battle To Save Victims

DENVER, Aug. 28.—Physicians today were waging a
desperate battle to save the
lives of several victims of
chlorine gas after twenty-six
persons, including thirteen
city firemen, were overcome
when a poisonous cloud of
gas swept through the plant
of the Denver Fire Clay Co.
late yesterday.

Forming from a leak in a gigantic railway tank the poisonous gas
cloud swept through the plant,
driving 120 panic-stricken workmen before it. Twelve men, a girl
stenographer and thirteen firemen,
the entire roster of Engine Company Number 10, were overcome
a few minutes after they arrived
on the scene.

The victims were taken to Denver General Hospital, where all
were reported to be showing symptoms comparable to soldiers gassed
in the World War. The conditions
of several are said to be critical.

The leak in the huge gas tank
was stemmed by I. W. Gibbs, a workman of the Clay Company,
who donned one of the firemen's
gas masks and closed the valves in
the pressure gauge from which the
stream of poison liquid was shooting, instantly transformed into a
gas cloud on contact with the atmosphere. The leak started as
workmen were transferring the
gas in liquid form from the large
tank into smaller tanks.

FAIR ATTENDANCE RECORDS MAY FALL

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—All attendance records at the Ohio State
fair, which is being held at the
state fair grounds here this week,
were expected to be broken today,
which has been designated as "governor's day." Governor Myers V.
Cooper will make his official tour
of the fair ground, accompanied by his military aides and a small
party of friends.

Wednesday, which was "Farm Bureau and Grange day," brought out the largest crowds of the 1930
fair so far, the day's attendance
being 80,141, as compared with 87,
622 a year ago Wednesday.

The necessity for the construction of a new poultry barn on the
fair grounds was announced yesterday by Governor Cooper after he had made a four-hour "incognito" tour of the exposition. The governor also indicated that a new
grandstand might be constructed
within the next year or so.

QUIET RITES HELD FOR MOVIE ACTOR

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 28.—
Following the pattern of his quiet, unobtrusive life, Lon Chaney will be buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery this afternoon after simple funeral services in a small chapel.

Only the famous motion picture
character actor's relatives and a few of his intimate friends will be allowed to attend the services,
presided over by the Reverend Michael Mullins of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Chaney's body will be buried beside the grave of his father.

Men prominent in the motion picture world and a few personal friends of the actor are to serve

DAVID BELASCO

By PAUL SHINKMAN, Central Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—A kindly faced old gentleman stepped nervously before the curtain at the Belasco Theatre the other evening. He wore a black suit of clerical cut, a priestly collar and an abashed smile. . . . A strange figure in this world of grease paint and foot-lights.

Yet the silver-haired old man actually belonged more to that world of theater than did any one of the blase first-nighters who were there to greet him. For he was David Belasco, 71-year-old Patriarch of the American Stage, and dean of its producers. . . . And he was once more exercising his cherished prerogative of opening Gotham's new theatrical season. "Dancing Partner," by Frederick and Fanny Hutton, from the Hungarian of Alexander Engel and Alfred Grunwald, was the play.

A Good Appetite?

Yes—then work seems like play!
THAT is the right way! Don't starve your system—those red-blood-cells, when lowered in number, may cause serious trouble. In fact, if the tendency of a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA may result. Body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S. S.S.S. restores the red-blood-cells to normal. Your appetite picks up, your whole body is strengthened, invigorated! You, too, may soon possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. MAKER OF STARS

"There are a million stage-struck women in this county," the maker of stars said in 1900. "I know their capacities at a glance. If they lie to me, I can still tell. . . . There are women who are better actresses off the stage than on it."

Fortune smiled upon the young producer from California. Will, great eclair, his handsome Belasco Theatre was opened the evening of Sept. 29, 1902. . . . a "drawing room theater," resigned to be the imposing theatrical home of Mrs. Leslie Carter, first and perhaps greatest of the Belasco-made stars.

The indomitable Belasco pushed on. Feuds, law suits, temperamental actors were but passing complications. "Even a shoe-maker must have temperament," he confided to his public in 1904. "Actors are like instruments; it takes some one to find the right note."

To be sure, there was that melancholy prediction of the same year—1904. "The stage of America is doomed," said Mr. Belasco to the newspapers one day. He added that he could see not a ray of light on the horizon. . . . that the outlook was getting darker and darker. . . . the trouble being that "the intelligent public is ignored by managers."

Still, a quarter of a century later, silver-haired Mr. Belasco is still with us. And so long as that is the case, the outlook will not be "getting darker and darker."

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre. Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LOSING TO GAIN — He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.—Matthew 10:39.

ADVICE OF AMERICANS

A veteran foreign correspondent of the New York Times comes here to discover that Americans, while apparently not fully recognizing the influence of their material power on world events, are inclined to over-estimate the respect paid abroad to their moral precepts. The nations of Europe, according to Mr. Edwin L. James, adopt a purely critical attitude toward America and Americans. They appraise us pragmatically. Our size, our wealth, our actual and potential military and naval power, our economic resources and commercial aggressiveness are to Europe very real things, which must be reckoned with; but the old world is merely amused by the pretension that we can teach it anything worth while in the way of culture or morals.

A shocking statement, Americans will say, who have not forgotten the Macedonian cry for American moral leadership which Walter Hines Page relayed from Europe in his letters to Woodrow Wilson in the darkest days of the World war. Shocking to our national vanity, without doubt; and the shock is not softened by the fact that it is the considered conclusion of a trained observer, who has spent more years in London than Ambassador Page had months, when the latter wrote to his friend in the White House that America had only to assert moral leadership of the world to attain it. After the war, as Mr. James points out, a prostrate Europe was willing to receive our advice, as long as it was wrapped up in financial assistance; but that is now changed. Countries no longer in sore need of American capital are under no necessity of taking American advice on how to order their lives. They laugh at it.

Why shouldn't they? Outside of exploiting the natural resources of a continent which God gave the Indians and our ancestors took away from them, we have done little enough. Are not we, who have yet to prove that we can govern ourselves with reasonable success, a bit presumptuous in advising other and more ancient peoples how to govern themselves?

Whether we are presumptuous or not, an enlightened self-interest ought to warn us of the danger of thinking that our advice will be regarded abroad as more than, at best, a manifestation of enthusiastic youth. Assuming that the old world is influenced by our fresh young idealism is dangerous. The desperate flattery that accompanies appeals for American gold cannot safely be mistaken for a promise to be guided by American advice. We may better wake up now, than later, to the unpleasant but saving fact that in this cold and practical world, a nation's moral influence on contemporaneous events is measured exactly by its ability to enforce its morality.

The game of "rummy" the members of the Fairmont (Minnesota) Recreation club played to bring on rain, seems to have broken the drought, and probably was as effective as any other incantation would have been.

It seems to be the theory of some of our penologists that if a person doesn't like to stay in prison, he ought to be let out, because otherwise his temper may become spoiled.

This moderate weather probably is only the calm before the hot blast that will come about the time school re-opens.

The WAY of the WORLD

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Nearly twice as many persons are taking home study courses as are in attendance at all the colleges and universities in the country. Columbia, Chicago university, many other institutions, offer educational chances at your own door.

NOTHING BUT

The reason few of us get anywhere worth speaking about in this brief life is that we have no powers of concentration. A reporter asks Helen Willis Moody whether she is interested in the new Tom Thumb golf ball. She says: "I do not play golf. I am nothing but a tennis player." Most men and women who have achieved outstanding successes would say: "I am nothing but a writer; nothing but a soldier; nothing but an astronomer; nothing but a manufacturer; nothing but a lawyer." Too bad it has to be so, but it is the only way. One must concentrate. One must pay the price.

ONE THING

Speaking of nothing but, one reads in the Detroit News: "And St. Paul said, 'This one thing I do,'" and went on to tell how he devoted his entire energies and life to proclaiming a message that he considered worthy of all his efforts. A great man that Paul; he might have been a university professor in Tarsus, "no mean city," or might have risen to a place of influence as a Roman citizen, establishing contacts between the Roman government and the Jewish people so difficult to govern. In that case he would have been forgotten with most of the men of his generation. But he joined the nothing-but and became immortal.

"And so might the list be lengthened with the names of all the great specialists of the world—Galileo and Luther and Newton and Columbus and Washington and hosts of others."

THE BIG IDEA

Let's not worry if the universe is so big we can't grasp it if the idea is so big we can't understand. Let's be glad life and the universe are not so small and commonplace we CAN understand them. As Fosdick says: "I would rather live in a world where my life is surrounded by mystery than live in a world so small that my mind could comprehend it."

LEARNING TO INVEST

California university students have a course in learning to invest without losing in the market. The student who should get a perfect mark in that course is the one who says the best way for the young man to invest is to put his money into a savings bank.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS
WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126 Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

STAGE DIRECTIONS

A Correction:
Directions on the stage always are considered from the actor's angle, facing the audience.

HAS ANY PRESIDENT ever been elected to the senate after expiration of his presidential term? Andrew Johnson, seventeenth president, was elected to the senate from Tennessee as a vindication of the attempt to impeach him while president.

Controlling Electricity

Can you tell me what department of the government has control over electricity?

The Federal Power Commission regulates the interstate transmission of electric power. The Bureau of Standards does electrical research work.

French Beans

Are any French beans raised in the United States?
Generally speaking, no, unless for experimental purposes. French beans are grown in India.

The Former Kaiser

Please advise the correct name of the ex-kaiser of Germany.
William Hohenzollern II.

Lead Pencils

To settle an argument will you please state what kind of lead is used in lead pencils?

There is no lead in a lead pencil. The so-called lead is, in reality, graphite, a manufactured and not a mined substance.

Oldest Poem

What is the oldest poem in the English language?
"Beowulf," an epic of the Celts and Saxons who first invaded the British Isles.

Harold Lockwood

Is Harold Lockwood still in the movies?
Harold Lockwood died of influenza in 1919.

Television

What are the fundamental principles of television?

Television is accomplished much in the same way as photography. The photo-electric cells or electric eyes, as they are popularly called, pick up images and flash them into a transmitter. The receiving set which reproduces them is usually a revolving disc with small perforations. It operates in somewhat the same manner as a motion picture projector.

World's Widest Dam

Where is the widest dam in the world?
The Sennar dam on the Blue Nile, near Makwar, Sudan, is 9,900 feet wide and 128 feet high. It was opened in 1926.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Carl Van Vechten has just contributed another to the year's list of Unpleasant Books about Unpleasant People. It's called "Parties," and the hero thus defines the gin-sodden wretches of the east: "We're swine, filthy swine," he says. "We'll be drunk pretty soon . . . and we'll get drunker and drunker and drift about night clubs, so drunk that we won't even know where we are."

"Parties" would make a splendid book to throw at a roach.

LITERACHOOR

Speaking of Barney reminds me that everybody else's biography having been done, the bottom of the bag has been reached and we are now going to have Al Capone's enlightening and enlightening life story Fred Fasley, Chicago newspaperman, has written it and Ives Washburn is going to do the publishing. Fred tells me he's packed everything between the covers from the first Hand Shake Murder to the party Al threw some time ago on his Florida estate, at which the guests amused themselves by shooting at floating pop bottles with machine guns.

MEN-ABOUT-TOWN

New York's colony of out-of-town Summer students who visit the Holy City each year at this time to perspire and engage in thought, are a God-fearing, sober-serious bunch. They shun the rowdy blandishments that are ballyhooed as symbols of the Naughty Isle. To them, life is real. Life is earnest. Their aim is to get back home with as much dough and learning as possible.

Many of them return, years later, eminent in their particular fields of endeavor, and come to be known as "prominent New Yorkers."

The majority of New York's "prominence" is not home grown.

ANOTHER TERRIBLE CRASH AT THE AVIATION FIELD

RENOMINATION OF SENATOR SHEPPARD DOES NOT INDICATE, SAYS STEWART, THAT LONE STAR STATE IS ANY DRYER

WASHINGTON. —If the wets can get any comfort out of Dr. Jennie Callias' defeat (which they are bragging about), as a dry candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Nebraska, then surely the dries have an equal right to congratulate themselves (as they are doing) on Senator Morris Sheppard's renomination in Texas.

In reality it does not appear that Dr. Callias' defeat hints at a mile more wet sentiment in Nebraska or that Senator Sheppard's victory suggests a bit more dryness in Texas than before.

No sensible person expected Dr. Callias' nomination.

Not a single soul, possessed of the least modicum of political intelligence, had the faintest idea that Senator Sheppard would or could lose.

THERE ARE SPOTS in the country where, even in advance of the November elections, the wets have some justification for feeling that they have improved their status—as in New Jersey—with both major party tickets thoroughly wet.

There are other spots where the dries are entitled to claim that they have rather more than held their own—as in reputedly wet Pennsylvania—which the eccentricities of Keystone State politics have deprived of any wet ticket whatever with the slightest chance of winning at the polls.

There are spots where the wet-and-dry issue still hangs in the balance—as in Illinois, with a dry Republican candidate for the senate opposing a wet Democrat—and Montana, with a dry Democrat trying to hang onto the same toga that a wet Republican is striving to take unto himself.

THERE ARE PUZZLING SPOTS also—such as Ohio—where, the other day, one party put up a very dry candidate for governor and a very wet senatorial candidate.

Finally, there are spots where no nominations have yet been made—like Massachusetts—where everything is all a-jumble and due to stay that way (perhaps even getting worse) for two or three weeks more.

Nebraska and Texas are in none of these classes, however. Both of them named just the candidates that everyone looked to see them name, and in Texas, at any rate (maybe not in Nebraska), the November election result likewise already can be foretold with the accuracy of a first class astronomer announcing a coming eclipse.

CURIOSITY ENOUGH, Senator Sheppard himself, of all folk, gave indications, ahead of the Lone Star Democratic primary, of some trifling anxiety concerning his chances—probably not much, but just a little.

The senator as will be recalled supported Al Smith and was considerably criticized for it by Texas dries. His bill, introduced in congress several months ago, to make bootleggers' customers as guilty as the bootleggers themselves, was generally interpreted as a gesture which he hoped would placate these ultrabone-dry kickers.

Possibly his uneasiness relative to the dries' attitude toward him was not entirely unnatural, but it is hard to believe he was afraid the wets would be able to muster sufficient strength to jeopardize his renomination.

in Washington, but entirely out of the public eye for fully a dozen years and never of more than congressional districtwide reputation.

As events proved, the senator got his normal support, after all. And why not? It could hardly have flopped to Henry, the wet—even to punish the author of the eighteenth amendment.

Sheppard not only got his normal support; he got more, too. Nearly all the Texas wets were Al Smithites in 1928. Recalling that Shep had stuck by Al a lot of them (from all accounts) resolved to stick by him, as his reward—despite Henry's wet candidacy.

Upshot—400,000 ballots for Sheppard 140,000 for Henry.

THE DRIES call this a famous victory.

In dry Texas! A strong candidate against a comparative unknown! And the former bleeding the latter of a substantial chunk of his expected backing, at that!

The mystery is: How the dickens did Bob Henry manage to pile up 140,000 votes? As for Senator Sheppard: Renominated (which means re-elected), will he or will he not be as determined as he was to make bootleggers' customers equally guilty with bootleggers?

It would be consistent, but, in the Anti-Saloon league's opinion, poor policy.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Broiled Steak Baked Potatoes
Buttered Beets
Celery, Lettuce and Dressing
Baked Pears or Fresh Pear Salad
Wafers Tea or Coffee
Fresh fruit used in some form makes a fine, healthful dessert for any season of the year, and especially at this time when fruits are at their best. We always think of baked apples, but seldom of baked pears; so the baked pear recipe may be new to you. You can use cream cheese to stuff the pears in the salad if you prefer. A pear honey recipe is included in today's recipes.

Today's Recipes

Baked Pears—It is easier to core pears for baking after cutting them in half. So halve the pears, remove cores, place in a greased baking dish, sprinkle lemon juice over each half, fill centers with sugar, place slices of lemon in the pan, add just enough water to prevent burning and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit until perfectly tender.

Fresh Pear Salads—One simple combination that is always enjoyed is the fresh pears with candied ginger. To make it, arrange the pared pear halves on lettuce. Sprinkle lightly with lemon juice. Fill the centers with finely chopped candied ginger and serve with fruit French dressing to which a bit of the ginger syrup has been added. Pears with finely chopped mint are also tasty. For this, prepare as above and serve sprinkled over with lemon and finely chopped mint. Use a fruit salad dressing for this also. Have you tried slicing pears and arranging them fanned shape with sections of orange, and serving with them golden salad dressing.

Pear Honey—One quart pears four cups sugar. No 2½ can sliced pineapple. Pear, core and quarter pears. Cut in small cubes, add sugar and cook slowly, until pears are soft and syrup is very thick. Now add pineapple, which has been drained and cut in small pieces. Heat again, but do not boil. Seal in sterile jars. The cans of broken slices of pineapple may be used in this, but it is better not to use the shredded variety.

Fudge Frosting

One and one-fourth cups sugar, one-fourth cup cocoa, one-half cup milk, two teaspoons butter, one-half teaspoon flavoring. Sift sugar and cocoa together and boil with the milk to the soft ball stage, 234 degrees. Remove from fire and add butter. Cool. Add flavoring and beat until it is thick and creamy.

Leave the oven door open a few moments after lighting, while the moisture condenses. This will prevent rust, and again to cool off after baking is done.

Vaccinate To Prevent 'Fall' Fever

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TYPHOID FEVER is another disease which belongs to the middle ages, to the dark ages. We have already this week described smallpox, which is no longer a pestilence of the modern period. And diphtheria, which is still among us to some extent, although we hope it is fighting its last fight. We hope and think—nay! we almost know, diphtheria is in its last line of trenches.

Typoid fever used to be called autumnal fever. It was particularly prevalent in the late summer and autumn. Thirty years ago about this time, the hospitals would be clearing out their beds for the cases of typhoid fever that were sure to come in to fill them. At least half the beds in a hospital in America 50 years ago were filled with typhoid patients. From 15 to 18 per cent of them died. All of them were invalids for a period of at least three months. Typhoid fever was no respecter of persons. It claimed the young, the strong, the weak, the old, the middle-aged.

And now it is no more. It is hard to find a case in a hospital now to demonstrate to students.

Its disappearance has been gradual. It has been due to several causes. It has gone through several stages. The cause of typhoid fever, the typhoid bacillus, was discovered by Professor Eberth, in 1880. This discovery initiated our conquest of the disease, because with the study of its habits it was found that it was largely a water-borne disease.

The typhoid bacillus, Eberth found, entered the body in drinking water, sometimes in milk, sometimes in oysters, sometimes from food over which flies had walked, but always in material contaminated by water. And boiling the water will kill the typhoid germs. So when people learned that and began to boil all the water they used, typhoid fever began to disappear.

Then city health departments started to make a daily inspection of the drinking water. When typhoid bacilli are present they notify the population through the papers, and warn people to be sure to boil the drinking water before use. This public inspection still further reduced the number of cases of the disease.

Lastly, individual inoculation began to be practiced. During the Boer war, about 1899, Dr. Almroth Wright showed that by injecting a person with three doses of an artificial typhoid bacilli, an artificial immunity was established. Dr. Wright proved that if he inoculated one regiment of soldiers with typhoid vaccination the number of cases of typhoid in that regiment was almost nothing compared to the number of cases in a regiment not so inoculated.

This practice of typhoid vaccination has become very widespread in the general population. It has been the third most important means of preventing typhoid.

To show how effective all these measures are, let us recall the actual figures as collected by the government. In 1900 the death rate from typhoid fever was 36 persons per 100,000 population; in 1927, it was five persons per 100,000 population.

Now the question naturally arises in any parents' mind—shall I give my child the typhoid vaccination? Won't boiling the water be enough? Won't the supervisor of the drinking water by the board of health be enough protection?

The answer depends on how efficient your board of health is. Then the question arises, will your child always drink only the water you have prepared for it? Water containing typhoid bacilli may be clear and sparkling, without a particle of odor.

Then the board of health must notify you that there is typhoid in the water, but in the meantime you or your children have drunk the water and been infected with typhoid.

My advice is, by all means to have the children vaccinated against typhoid before starting for school. It takes three injections, given hypodermically, about a week to five days apart. Children stand the injections with fewer reactions than adults.

Every soldier in the United States Army has to have this set of inoculations before he enters service. A colorist, the medical corps of the army told me that before the practice became compulsory, he never took a regiment out on fatigue duty without expecting to be court-martialed before he returned, on account of the number of cases of typhoid that would develop. In spite of the fact that the orders were that the men should not drink anything but boiled water, they would sneak away and drink from wells and cisterns. Thus many of them got typhoid.

Now, with universal compulsory vaccination, they can drink any water they like. There is no typhoid fever in the Army.

Find Work You'll Like

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: As a young man 23 years of age I have been keeping company with a girl 21 for the past two years. We really love each other very much.

"During the time I have had numerous jobs and have not made any headway. In fact, I have worked at a very low salary, so that I have to borrow money to live.

"I love her, I hate to lose her, and have often told her not to see me steadily, so she can have a chance with others. She refuses to listen to this, and is really holding on, sticking with me.

"My future looks black and shows no sign of getting anywhere. What could I do? I don't want to lose her, but feel bad to continue going with her.

"WORRIED."
No wonder you feel discouraged. Worried, when you can not even pay your own way, let alone take your girl friend out or plan on getting married. You say nothing of what advantages of education you have had, and why your career so far has been so disheartening. Is it that work has been scarce and you have been laid off on that account? Or haven't you been able to make good in the jobs you have had?

What kind of work do you like and do well? Do you need training for it? School will be open soon, and you could go to night school and specialize in something in which you could do well—some line into which you could put your heart. That is the way to make a success of work.

Don't let yourself think that circumstances alone have been the cause of your lack of success. Make up your mind that it will be your own fault if you do not succeed. That is very important. It is always the failure who alibis.

You must have something worthwhile about you to keep a nice girl true to you in spite of repeated discouragement.

And don't borrow money to live on, even if you do not make much. Find ways to live on it if it is any way possible, until times look up with you, and save as much as you can. In this way you can reward the faith your girl friend has in you.

Treat Hair To Retain Curliness

By GLADYS GLAD

MANY GIRLS have experienced a loss of most of the natural wave or curl in their hair upon going to a dry climate. Others who hadn't suspected that they possessed a bit of wave in their hair, have acquired almost curly hair in moist, humid climates.

If you have found the wave in your tresses gradually disappearing, by all means take steps to urge it back into your hair.

If you have only a slight wave in your hair, and you wish to retain it, avoid drying your hair with artificial heat. Such heat is very harmful to curly hair. Hot irons used on naturally curly hair are also most destructive to it.

If you are trying to keep your natural wave, don't comb your hair while it is drying. Dry it by shaking it out with the hands. When it is almost thoroughly dry, set the waves where you want them, using your fingers scissor-fashion. Then place combs in the hair to insure the permanence of the waves. Allow the hair to dry completely before removing combs. And don't use too much vigor when you first comb out the wave. Then, every day, when you dress your hair, press the waves back into it with the fingers.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Dry Skin

Mrs. R.: Bleach the hairs and dark skin on your upper lip. If your skin is very dry, a bit of nourishing cream applied nightly will prove beneficial. Use a mild astringent in place of the ice rub.

Brown Spots

Millie G.: To eradicate brown spots, use a solution of hyposulphite of soda, one part of the chemical to eight parts of water.

Bleaches

Louisa L. and Peggy: Lemon juice and diluted peroxide are excellent bleaches. Apply a bit of cold cream after using either bleach, to combat their drying tendencies.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

A little delving into the National League batting averages for the current season reveals the somewhat astonishing fact the Lang Chevrolet Co. city softball champs, has a team batting average one percentage point better than the collective average of the so-called all-star team picked by the team managers to oppose the city champs in the post-season series which starts Friday.

The Lang squad, composed of fifteen players, was at bat 641 times and made 223 hits for a team average of .347. Putting the individual averages of the seventeen players composing the all-star team together discloses members of the team were at bat 882 times and cracked out 306 hits for a mark of .346, one point less than Langs.

Undoubtedly, however, the all-star aggregation could put nine players on the diamond possessing a better collective batting average than the new city title-holders. Comparing the two teams, position for position, would indicate the all-stars, as far as batting strength is concerned, should have a slight edge on Langs. Comparative figures follow:

First base—Langs: F. Cain (.175); "Happy" Davis, (.500); All-Stars: Huston, (.358).

Second base—Langs: Joe Smith, (.438); All-Stars: Prof Seall, (.377).

Right field—Langs: D. Fuller, (.357); All-Stars: Kersey, (.395).

Catchers—Langs: McCoy, (.355); Phil Corr, (.258); All-Stars: McFadden, (.316); Leopold, (.513); D. Murrell, (.313).

Pitchers—Langs: Gibney, (.285); Williams, (.205); All-Stars: Wells, (.320); Frame, (.222).

Utility outfielders—Langs: Buell, (.714); Shaw, (.235); All-Stars: Peters, (.327); Hoag, (.241); W. Cope, (.181).

The "formal opening" of the "Tee Wee" dinky links, operated by Jim Stout IV, son of the city school board member, and Dick Luce, occurred Tuesday night and the two financiers realized a profit of $1.10 on the evening, charging a fifty-cent round and three rounds for a dime, ten cents. This midweek links is located on an empty lot at Hill and Columbia sts. and par for the course is twenty-one strokes, although it is declared by patrons to be utterly impossible to shoot it in par figures. The number of holes is problematical.

A sign on a tree in front of the home of Howard "Irish" Donley at 626 S. Detroit St., points to another bantam course conceived by Donley's youngsters, Billie, John and Ruth. The fee is a penny and according to the sign, "prizes" will be awarded at the end of each week of play.

As the fellow said over the radio the other night, it won't be long now until we will be doing everything except sleeping at night.

Muskingum College, alma mater of Coach "Pinky" Wilson, is the latest convert to nocturnal football.

Night football will be introduced to Muskie gridiron fans this fall with the scheduling of four home games for night time play.

The Muskingum stadium, which is overlooked by Pinky's home in New Concord, has a seating capacity of 4,500 people and will be illuminated with Crouse-Hinds enclosed type projectors mounted on towers, which is the latest achievement in flood-lighting.

Heading the coaching staff for the 1930 campaign is W. F. Lange and he will be assisted by Coach W. B. Stone, who returns after a year's absence. Lange, for whom Pinky has nothing but admiration, enters upon his eighth year of coaching Muskie teams and has enjoyed unusual success in his efforts. With the return of promising, although not veteran material, prospects are said to be bright for a strong eleven this fall.

Muskingum's home night games are with Rio Grande September 26, the opener on the schedule; Denison, October 10; West Liberty (W. Va.), October 17; and Marietta, October 1. The home-coming game is with Mt. Union October 25, but this will be a daylight contest.

Emmett Tuhey Retains Caddy Golf Crown

CHAMPION TURNS IN 79 TO WIN SPECIAL MATCH WEDNESDAY

Brilliant Round Gives Him Ten-Stroke Victory

Emmett Tuhey retained his title as caddy champion at the Xenia Country Club by adding a brilliant 79 Wednesday to his previous card of 86 for an aggregate score of 165 in the special 36-hole match with Ralph Bickling and Donald Smith with the 1930 caddy golf championship of the club at stake. The three caddies played the final eighteen holes of their match Wednesday, Ralph Bickling shot an 84, which with his 91 of Tuesday, gave him a total score of 175, ten strokes behind the defending champion, Donald Smith had an aggregate of 177 strokes as he shot an 87 Wednesday and a 90 on the previous day.

Tuhey shot unbeatable golf Wednesday and his card of 79 was only nine strokes over par for the two rounds.

Play in the first and second flights of the annual caddy tournament among the less accomplished youthful golfers also reached the final round Wednesday.

Wagner reached the finals of the first flight by eliminating Halstead, 2 up and 1 to play, while Custer survived his semi-final round match, defeating LeMar, 5 and 4. In the second flight, Wilbur Acton beat Fletcher, 2 and 1 in the semi-finals and will meet Fuller, who won his semi-final round match by default.

Pat Gillespie, caddy master, under whose supervision the tourney is being conducted, expects to award a total of seven prizes to the various winners.

ALL-STARS NAME BILL LE SOURD CAPTAIN; PLAY PRACTICE TILT

Assembling for the first time, the all-star softball team recently chosen by the managers of local National and American League softball teams to play a five-game series with the Lang Chevrolet Co. nine, starting Friday this week at Cox Field, held its initial practice at Washington Park Wednesday night.

The players at first appeared to have difficulty with the lively inside seam ball, particularly in the first few innings of a practice game played with a Dayton N. C. R. team, but grew more accustomed to the "rabbit" sphere as the abbreviated game progressed and won an easy victory.

Not all of the seventeen members of the picked squad were able to be present because several were members of the Graham Paints and Carroll-Binder Co. teams which played off a postponed game at Cox Field the same evening with the inside seam ball in use.

The N. C. R. team introduced a little Hawaiian pitcher who threw the fastest ball seen in this locality this season, but inability to get the ball over the plate reduced his effectiveness.

The all-star squad will hold its second and final pre-series practice at Washington Park at 6 p. m. Thursday and an effort is being made to have all the players present this time.

The players got together and elected Bill LeSourd, Downtown Country Club outfielder, as captain for the coming series.

GRAHAM PAINTS WIN PLAY-OFF WITH CARROLL-BINDERS 15-4

Graham Paints staked their claim to undisputed possession of fourth place in the National Softball League by overwhelming the Carroll-Binder Co. nine, 15 to 4 in a special post-season game Wednesday night at Cox Field.

Leading from start to finish and gathering fourteen hits, the Paints registered a surprisingly easy triumph.

Prior to this game the two teams were tied for fourth place in the league standing and when their scheduled final game of the season was called off on account of wet grounds last Friday night, they decided to settle the question of supremacy Wednesday night this week.

The contest was played with the bases sixty feet apart and an inside seam instead of an outside seam ball was used.

Lloyd Downey, former Carroll-Binder Co. pitcher, held his old teammates to nine hits and although he was hit safely in every inning he twirled shutout ball after the second round.

Carroll-Binder combined three hits with two errors to score three times in the first stanza and added another in the second on a triple and an out at first.

Grahams, however, had assaulted Jacob, Carroll-Binder pitcher, who formerly hurled for the Paints for five hits and six runs in the first inning. The winners tallied two more runs in the second, one in the third and fourth and five more in the sixth.

The contest was limited to seven innings.

Hurst, third-baseman, pounded out a triple and three singles in five times at bat for the winners, while L. Cope knocked a home run, double and single, Kersey contributed a brace of triples and Mulburn a triple and single, Gene Leahy, playing shortstop for Carroll-Binder, had a perfect day at the plate, singling three times and walking once. Peters, center fielder, bounced a home run over the center field fence in the first inning with one aboard, one of the longest hits of the season. Lineups:

Will Reorganize Bowling League

The Senior Business Men's Bowling League, composed of three six-man teams in past years, will be re-organized for the coming season at a scheduled meeting at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Recreation Parlor.

The principal question to be decided by bowlers in this league is which night of the week will be most suitable to them to occupy the alleys. In past years teams in this league have bowled on Wednesday nights, but this season it is believed the choice will rest between Tuesday and Thursday nights, either of which is declared to be more convenient to a majority of the members of the competing teams.

RETIRING PRIEST GIVEN PURSE BY CONGREGATION WEDNESDAY

REV. DAVID POWERS

REV. LAWRENCE WESSELL

Members of the congregation of St. Brigid Church bade farewell to their retiring pastor, the Rev. David Powers at an impromptu affair arranged in his honor in the parochial school auditorium Wednesday evening.

The tribute was arranged as a surprise to the Rev. Father Powers, who left Thursday for Dayton to assume charge of his new assignment as pastor of St. Joseph's Church. The esteem in which the retiring pastor was held by his congregation was expressed by Henry Walsh, chairman of a committee that arranged the affair. Mr. Walsh was warmly applauded when he said that the retiring pastor had endeared himself to members of his charge and that all had benefitted by coming under his influence during the last six years. He concluded by presenting to the Rev. Father Powers a purse of $440 while a gift of $50 was given to the priest's aunt, Miss Julia Maher, who has been his housekeeper during his regime here.

The gift of money was collected during a hasty canvass of the congregation during the last few days, in order that the Rev. Father Powers would have some material expression of the esteem in which he was held by his flock. In expressing his thanks, the Rev. Father Powers said he had been extremely happy in his pastorate in Xenia and credited the loyal support he had received here for the success which he had attained in Xenia. He also was touched by the gift to his aunt, to whom he gave great credit for his inspiration in his work and for making his home here a happy one.

Parishioners personally bade their pastor farewell on leaving the hall, where each was greeted personally by the Rev. Father Powers. The program was interspersed with instrumental and vocal music, Miss Eleanor McDonnell singing several selections.

The pastorate of the Rev. Lawrence Wessell, new pastor of St. Brigid's, who comes here from St. Jerome Church, California, O., near Cincinnati, official began Thursday and he is expected to greet his new congregation at Sunday's services.

COMMISSION WILL RESUME LIGHT CASE

To accept or not to accept the latest proposal of the Dayton Power and Light Co. relative to commercial electric light rates in Xenia—that is the question which is again expected to be considered at the bi-monthly City Commission meeting Thursday night.

The Xenia Retail Merchants' Association has placed itself on record since the last commission meeting to the effect the recent offer of the power company is eminently unsatisfactory to local business men, and for that reason the advisability of condemning the distribution system of the Dayton company within the city limits may again be discussed.

MAN CHARGED WITH FRAUD IS ARRESTED

Charged in an affidavit filed in Municipal Court by W. J. Oglesbee, Xenia, with obtaining money under false pretenses, Ed Stewart was taken into custody Wednesday night by Deputy Sheriff Geo. Sugden, four miles southeast of Waynesville, was returned to Xenia and is being held in the County Jail, pending arraignment before Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday.

Oglesbee charges in the affidavit that Stewart, representing himself as a buyer and baler of straw for The Hagar Straw Board and Paper Co., Cedarville, obtained 600 bales of straw valued at $50 from him last August 15, but that he subsequently discovered that Stewart had no authority to buy straw for the Cedarville firm. He claims Stewart defrauded him in that he obtained the straw for his own personal use.

OLD EX-CONVICT SAYS MODERN CRIMINALS ARE MOST VICIOUS

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—A new type of criminal—a vicious, slinking, murderous type—"quick on the trigger"—has sprung up in America, according to Al Hagan, "the Rambler," who knows a thing or two about criminals. Hagan, now a lecturer on prison reform, is an ex-convict who served a "stretch" of fifteen years in Folsom prison, California.

Hagan, a stocky, well built man of 61, whose hair is turning gray around the temples, rambled into the "City Room" of International News Service and presently found his way to this reporter's desk. You'd never suspect, looking at him for the first time, that here was a man who spent fifteen years of his life in "the big house" and who once staged one of the most sensational jail breaks in the history of Folsom.

"Yes sir," said Hagan when he got to talking, "the criminals of today are a dangerous lot—a good deal more so than the burglar, the safe cracker, the confidence man and the pickpocket of my day. I'm not saying they weren't hard characters, ten and twenty years ago but these criminals of today make them seem tame by comparison."

"Today it's a common thing to hear of them putting someone 'on the spot.' There are more assassins-type criminals than ever. And racketeering, of course, is to blame. They shoot their enemies down without giving them a chance."

"The new criminals range in age from eighteen to twenty-six years of age. That's much younger than in my day. Many of them are well educated and come from good homes. These educated fellows make the most vicious kind of criminals. Some of them are potential gang leaders; others are equipped with the nerves to carry out orders to 'shoot to kill.' They go after bigger game than did the confidence men and second story workers of my day. Some of the old types of crimes have almost gone out of existence."

Hagan switched the conversation to the numerous prison outbreaks that have occurred in the various states in the last year. He was inclined to blame society for the serious situation that has menaced the tranquility in America's penal institutions in recent months.

"Prisons are the most expensive institutions in the world," said Hagan. "It is costing $11,000,000,000 a year to maintain crooks, convicts, jails and penitentiaries—and all they stand for."

"Great sums of money could be saved if the penitentiaries were operated for the good of the individual that society puts behind the bars instead of making them dismal bastilles in which to keep men locked up. Prison reform can be accomplished only by instilling some home in the souls of wrongdoers."

Hagan declared that "hate waves" against society develops among the men inside the prisons that are operated contrary to the dictates of common sense and humanity. Any wrong society does is repaid in full, he averred.

The criminal, he said, should be put in prison of course, but it should be proved to him that the

GLAD TO TELL WHAT KONJOLA DID FOR ME

Found in New And Different Medicine, First And Only Relief From Misery.

Times without number men and women have exclaimed: "Konjola is the only medicine that helped me; the medicine I should have had in the first place." Take, for example, the case of Mr. Frank McConnell, 154 Holt Street, Dayton, Ohio, who says:

"Oh, how I suffered with stomach trouble before I found Konjola. Everything I ate, seemed to lie like a rook in my stomach. My liver was sluggish, and I had dizzy spells and spots before my eyes. Rest at night was impossible, and all that I tried for relief did no good. But what a surprise Konjola gave me! Even the first bottle helped digestion. I took in all nine bottles, and today it is a pleasure to eat; dizzy spells are gone; my nerves are calm and I sleep fine. Never shall I cease to praise the medicine that did this for me."

Konjola is a medicine for old and young; for all the family. That is why Konjola is a household word wherever this amazing medicine is known and given a chance to prove its worth.

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ill of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia, Ohio at the Gallaher Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Institution is for the purpose of correcting him and setting him on the right path. Only the "right kind" of men, sympathetic and understanding, should be trusted as heads of such institutions. The convicts should be employed at useful labor for charitable institutions, in his opinion.

"And don't starve the convict's body while he's incarcerated," advised Hagan.

The old ex-convict talked freely of his "stretch" in Folsom prison. He did his fifteen years for a railroad payroll robbery in San Francisco. He made a spectacular escape in 1909 but was captured in October, 1920, in San Francisco harbor. And he finally served all of his "time," he was released and tried numerous jobs—honest jobs, of course.

"It's hard to go straight after you've been behind prison walls," said Hagan. "Not that you don't want to, but sometimes the 'dicks' (detectives) won't let you. I had my troubles in this respect. Many detectives, however, are square shooters. Convicts never had good police officers who capture them provided they prosecute them fairly. It's the 'framers' they hate."

Hagan was quite convinced about one thing: "Crime never pays." He's been going "straight" for a long time now, and he's going to continue walking the straight and narrow path. He never had more "peace of mind" than he has today.

LEIGH NISBET WILL LEAVE SCOUT POST

Resignation of Leigh M. Nisbet, former Xenian and Boy Scout executive of Zane Trace Area, embracing Muskingum County and parts of Perry and Guernsey Counties, with headquarters at Zanesville, O., has been accepted by the Zanesville Council in charge of Scout activities and will be effective October 1.

Nisbet is said to be considering a number of lucrative positions offered him in larger cities. In accepting the resignation, Scout leaders expressed sincere regret at the departure of Nisbet, who was one of the pioneers in the Scout movement in Xenia and had been affiliated with Zane Trace Area for a number of years.

A CLOSE OBSERVATION

of facts will satisfy most anyone that this particular young lady wasn't very long getting "on the ropes." A policeman stopped her as she was stepping on the gas and told her that she was going 60 miles an hour. "Oh isn't that wonderful," she said, "and I only learned to drive yesterday."

It's wonderful the way Dayton tires resist all attempts of even the roughest roads to wear them down. Tenacity, sturdiness, superb resiliency and cord construction account for the ability of these tires to wear better and last longer.

SPLASH! She Swims to Conquer

By Eleanor Burnett

READ THIS FIRST:

Kitty Wilmont, secretary to Elery Goss, assists Gordon Platt, Goss' confidential man, with whom she is daily falling in love, in running down a "leak" in the office; Atlee Goss' chief clerk, asks her to marry him. She does not accept. After meeting Boss Kellier at a party given by Hilda, phone operator, she is later accosted by him, and he asks her to work for him at a thousand dollars a month.

Next day in East Side Natatorium she defeats a professional swimmer in an impromptu race, but is shocked when Platt tells her a gambler, Tom Gayle, won a five thousand dollar bet on her and indignantly rejects money Gayle offers her through Platt.

Wanting to help Platt, but not ready to tell all she knows of Atlee, Kitty asks help of Spike Harden, who suggests a private detective agency, where she is shocked to find Gayle, the gambler who bet on her, in charge. But she is happy to learn that Platt returned his money, and falls asleep that night dreaming of the kiss Platt never tried to give her.

Her home-town lover, John Spurgeon, arrives unexpectedly in New York; Kitty stages a party for him with friends; she sees Platt, who cuts her dead.

Tormented by jealousy she speaks to Platt as she dances by him; he denies his own name. She refuses a proposal from John. Next day Platt tells her he was doing secret work and did not want the suspect to know his name; Kitty hears for the first time of Gila Mine stock. Taking important dictation from Goss, she lays a plan to foil the information thief, learns that Spurgeon is investing in Gila Mine, which she knows will drop, and resolves to help him, secretly.

To get money to help him, she determines to swim as a professional, to win $2,000, and persuades Fatty Hemming, stock broker, against his better judgment, to sell Gila stock for her; the same stock John has bought.

To get money to help him she swims as a professional and wins. She persuades Fatty Hemming, stock broker, to sell Gila stock for her, the same stock John has bought.

Now go on with the story

CHAPTER 30

Honesty is a state of mind. It never occurred to Kitty to use all of the thirty-six hundred dollars Mr. Gayle had handed her and have Fatty sell as much Gila Mine as that amount would margin.

John had put up two thousand dollars and bought one hundred shares. She put up two thousand dollars and sold one hundred shares. By increasing her sale she might make more money for herself did not cross her mind, and more than it occurred to her that she was wrongfully using confidential information in selling any stock.

She heard ten minutes more of protests from Fatty Hemming. Luckily, Fatty regarded her as "only a stenographer" and swallowed whole her foolish story of selling on the advice of a fortune teller.

A little later she had reason to be very thankful that she had a little extra money.

Kitty promptly forgot she was interested in the stock market. Mr. Goss kept her very busy, and when she had a moment for thought, she spent it on phrasing her confession to Gordon. For she could no longer avoid belief that in some way her friends were implicated in the office leak.

Some one had read those false notes in the waste paper basket. Some one had thought they had found out—that Gila Mine was going up. And that information was known to Fatty Hemming!

How it had worked Kitty couldn't imagine. Sally didn't read short hand; neither did Atlee. Kitty's "pot hooks" were court reporters' style; she knew of no other stenographer in the office who used her system. She reflected there were plenty of court reporters in New York, and whoever had taken her discarded, but falsified notes could easily have them translated.

She feared greatly the effect of her confession to Gordon. He had trusted her, yet she had not told all she knew. He had admired her stand about the "split" on Gayle's bet; in his absence she had accepted what she had refused in his presence. If only she could tell him first; if only Atlee had not recognized her and spread the news around the office. No one mentioned it, but every one was busy, and she didn't know how to ask. Of course, even if Atlee had seen her, he wouldn't know about Gayle and the "split." But they would certainly guess.

If the stock market did as she expected, she would have to tell Fatty something—anything—to persuade him to make John think he had won instead of lost.

Altogether her thoughts were very chaotic and disturbing.

She was off duty at three in the afternoon. On the street newsboys cried "Extra, Extra!" Buying one she saw the flaming headlines: "Stock Market Slump! Gila Mine Leads Bear Raid." and knew that she was right.

Hailing a taxi she flew for Fatty Hemming's office. She had difficulty in convincing the office boy that she could see "the boss." But a dollar bill succeeded where persuasion and a deep dimple failed.

She found a worried man trying to answer three telephones at once, writing orders, putting on O. K. of others, and generally finishing a wild day.

"Hello, Kitty!" he threw at her over one shoulder. "With you in a moment—yes, closed twenty-nine and a half—no, sorry, sold out—"

In a few minutes he turned to her.

"Your da—darned fortune teller knew more than I did!" he confessed, ruefully. "Talk fast, girl—I'm busy as a one armed man with the hives—"

Kitty put a little hand on his arm.

"Friend of mine?" she asked. "Of course—what do you want?"

"My winning and his loss are a stand off!" she cried. "I've sixteen hundred dollars to give you. I want you to tell him you sold for him, instead of buying—and give him my sixteen hundred as a profit!"

Fatty protested. It wasn't ethical. He couldn't lie. It would cause all sorts of trouble if it were known. John would have to take his loss like any other investor. She could give it to him herself—"

Kitty interrupted. "Now, Fatty, dear! You wouldn't put me in that embarrassing position, would you?"

"Please, Fatty, dear—I'll kiss you if you will!"

"Oh, damn!" cried Fatty. "You don't have to bribe me!"

"Will you, then?"

Fatty gulped. "I'm a helluva stock broker!" he answered.

"Yes!"

As the office boy came in Kitty jumped away guiltily. She had been about to make good her "bribe." He laid a card on Fatty's desk.

Kitty read it before Fatty did.

"He mustn't see me—he mustn't!" she whispered. "Promise, Fatty!"

Fatty showed Kitty out a side door. She stole out of the office guiltily, hoping no ill wind would bring John Spurgeon to see her department. But her heart sang, for the first time since she had signed her amateur standing away and risked Gordon's displeasure.

"With his original two thousand my two thousand!—and the sixteen hundred, he'll be able to take his mother to Vienna—and all I paid for it is a race! Oh, I know, Gordon, I know!" She moaned in her heart. "You won't approve. You'll say I ought to have borrowed it. But I can't help it. I had to stand by my friend—"

The day was bright and clear. The sun shone warmly, although there was a tang in the air. Kitty walked up Fifth Avenue, her head in the clouds, her heart happy, perhaps the happier because what she had done meant a real sacrifice.

People she met were smiling. All seemed well with the world. John was protected. She had paid the debt she owed his kindness and consideration when her father died. Deep down was the thought that it was easier to say no to a lover who looked at her with longing eyes, when she was out of debt to him. Had it not been for her, he would have lost the little with which he had come to New York.

"The poor lamb!" she thought. "He and his little two thousand dollars—"

Feeling hungry she dropped in on one of those restaurants which dot New York, in which, if one is lucky, one can have a little private side booth alone and eat good food at reasonable prices. A girl who has just given away thirty-six hundred dollars has a right to an expensive lunch if she wants it!

Over the partition between her booth and the next she heard low voices. The tones were familiar, if somewhat muffled.

"But I'm not willing to wait!" came a woman's voice. "You've put me off long enough. My sister is suspicious—"

"Please, now, don't!" came an obviously masculine voice. "It's so necessary, dear! I can't help it, but just a little while—I should have cleaned up today, but something went wrong."

"Oh, I'm so tired of excuses!" came the girl's voice. "It's always some reason."

"Hush! Don't talk so loud, Baby!"

Baby! Kitty froze to a greater attention.

"Don't you Baby me in public—I won't hush! I will tell! You've either got to announce it or I will! And I won't have you fooling another girl any more and saying it's for business reasons!"

Kitty rose, her face flaming. She was no eavesdropper. She intruded, to leave without being seen. She did not even ask herself what it was Baby wanted announced. She knew, now, without being told, that there was something wrong. Whoever the man was was evidently something to Baby. Could he be the unknown man Bert had watched Baby with in the restaurant?

And who was the girl being fooled?

The Theater

The tiff between Constance Bennett and the Pathe Studio is over and her picture, "Sin Takes a Holiday" is going into rehearsal at once, it is said, with Kenneth McKenna, formerly of Broadway, as her leading man.

McKenna is the player whom Horton is also a favorite in the legitimate on the west coast.

Jack Oakie is still a little dizzy from success. He says: "I got in the movies on a fluke, and it's a fluke I'm a star. If this racket should end tomorrow, the movies wouldn't owe me a thing, I'm satisfied."

Did you know the talking motion pictures caused the investment of $200,000,000 in the United States alone?

Constance Bennett

Mayor William Dodds, John W. Prugh and C. F. Ridenour, president and secretary, respectively, of the Commercial Club are in Cincinnati today attending the formal opening of the Ohio Valley Exposition.

A clever entertainment was given Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Santmyer, W. Third St., by a dramatic club, composed of the neighborhood, and was highly enjoyed by forty invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Adair, J. F. Orr, Charles Weaver, Geo. Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harner and Agnew DeHaven were among Xenians who were in Wilmington Sunday to attend the final day of the Clinton County Centennial and home-coming there.

Misses Sarah and Eleanor Williams and Nelle Rinck arrived home after a delightful pleasure trip down the St. Lawrence River.

State Theater in Los Angeles handkerchiefs were given to feminine patrons as they entered the door. Many exhibitors booked her next picture sight unseen, after seeing "Common Clay."

"Sin Takes a Holiday" is to be directed for Pathe by Paul Stein. Robert Milton and Dorothy Cairns wrote the story, the former being a director known throughout Hollywood for his habit of addressing his actors as "my children."

Photoplay classes the seven best pictures of the month as follows: "Raffles," "Old English," "On Your Back," "Manslaughter," "The Dawn Patrol," "Our Blushing Brides" and "The Singer of Seville."

The magazine rates the best individual performances of the month as follows: Richard Barthelmess in "The Dawn Patrol," George Arliss in "Old English," Ronald Colman in "Raffles," Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in "Our Blushing Brides," Claudette Colbert and Frederic March in "Manslaughter," Ramon Navarro, Dorothy Jordan and Renee Adoree in "The Singer of Seville," Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Little Accident," Milton Sills in "Man Trouble," Lowell Sherman in "Lawful Larceny," Billie Dove in "Sweethearts and Wives," William Powell in "For the Defense."

Another of the players in "Holliday" has cashed in on his performance. United Artists has just signed Edward Everett Horton to play a role in Douglas Fairbanks' new picture, "Reaching for the Moon." Horton's salary has jumped into big figures in the last year and it is rumored that he gets $20,000 from Joseph Schenck for the four weeks on the Fairbanks film.

OF HOLD-UP CHARGE

Identified by Frank R. Powers, part owner of "The Ideal Service Station" at Fairfield, as one of the bandits who held up his filling station Sunday, August 17 and compelled him to hand over a pocket-book containing personal papers and $49.26 in cash, Eugene S. Smith, 25, of 2315 Woodside Ave., Springfield, is being held in the Greene County Jail awaiting arraignment before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday on a charge of highway robbery.

An affidavit charging Smith with robbery was filed in Municipal Court Wednesday by Powers. Smith, arrested at Springfield, was returned to Xenia Wednesday night by Deputy Sheriff George Sugden and lodged in the County Jail.

Following the hold-up, Powers, who also owns a filling station in Dayton, visited that city and looked over the "rogue's gallery" at the Dayton police department in an effort to identify the bandits who held him up. Failing in this, he was referred to police records at Springfield. Several days ago at Springfield he was able to identify a picture of Smith as one of the men he charges figured in the robbery at Fairfield.

Acting on this information, Springfield police arrested Smith for investigation. Powers returned to Springfield Wednesday and is said to have confirmed the identification of Smith.

In view of the fact the robbery took place in Greene County, Powers came to Xenia and filed an affidavit against Smith in Municipal Court here. The Fairfield station is operated on a partnership basis by Powers and Emeric.

GREENE COUNTY BOY
SCOUTS HOLD FIRST
CAMPARALL AT FAIR

Sixteen Greene County Boy Scouts will take part in the first Camparall to be staged by Region Four, Boy Scouts of America, at the Ohio State Fair grounds at Columbus, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

These boys, eight from Xenia in Troop 41 and the same number from Troop 54 in Osborn, will form two of the three patrols representing the Tecumseh Council at the Camparall.

The other patrol representing the Tecumseh Council will be the Lion of Troop 4, Springfield under the patrol leadership of George Hopper, an Eagle Scout, who was a member of the junior staff of Camp Miami this summer.

Scout Executive H. O. Portz, of Springfield, will accompany the boys to Columbus where he will be chief observer for the Camparall for the last half of the week. He is also a member of the Camparall committee of Region Four.

The patrols from the local county under the direction of Scoutmaster Carl Pramer of Troop 41 and Scoutmaster Clarence Day of Troop 54, will leave Thursday noon. They will pitch camp at the Camparall plot, located at the northeast end of the Fairgrounds, Thursday afternoon.

The Camparall is designed and will demonstrate the various phases of Scoutcraft. Competition against standards rather than time is one of the distinctive ideas that will be impressed upon the minds of the boys. First aid, signaling, map-making, judging, knots, fire by friction, handicraft, cooking and camp life will be some of the projects in Scouting that will be experienced by the boys.

It is planned to have at least 250 Boy Scouts from all over the state to take part in the Camparall.

MASONS HERE ENJOY
CUTTING WEDNESDAY

One hundred and fifty members of the Masonic Lodge and their families attended the annual picnic and cutting of the order held at the Masonic Temple Wednesday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon a ball game between "fats" and "leaves" was played with the "fats" emerging victorious.

Other contests and features had been arranged and included a nail driving contest in which prizes were awarded Mrs. A. D. Chamberlin, Mrs. J. C. Denham, Mrs. Roy Buckles and Mrs. LaVerne Fulton. An amusing feature of the program was a "quick dressing" contest in which men were required to dress in women's attire and the women had to don men's clothing in the least possible time. Prizes went to A. E. Faulkner, Watkins Frame, Mrs. A. D. Chamberlin, Mrs. Fred Shultz and Mrs. Fred Haines. A sack race for women was won by Mrs. Fulton and Cecil Baxter won the race for men.

A horse shoe pitching game was played and W. J. Davis was winner in this event. Prizes in all the events had been donated by Xenia merchants.

A picnic supper was served and later in the evening cards and dancing were enjoyed in the temple.

Police Say Husband
Note Is Clue

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—
"Dear Ida:
Please forgive me for
what I have done. This is the best way out. Your dad,
"Eugene."

This note, found in a Jamaica rooming house, beside four .38-caliber shells, was believed to have solved the mystery today of how Mrs. Fran-
ces Kirkwood Van Clief met
death with Eugene Van Clief.

The woman, who once was tried for stabbing to death her second
husband, was herself murdered by
her third spouse, who then shot
himself after a protracted quarrel
over her jealousy of him, police
believe.

This theory, police held after discovery of the note, is the undoubted solution of the tangled death trail, which first led toward the woman, then toward an unidentified
third person; then finally ended at Van Clief's door. The note is believed to be intended for Ida Morris, a child by a former marriage.

The murder and suicide was believed to have come as the climax
to a quarrel over Mrs. Van Clief's 36th birthday party when Van Clief was alleged to have returned
home and found his wife with a
girl and two other men.

The girl, a cabaret entertainer,
told police that Mrs. Van Clief had
a premonition of tragedy before
her husband's arrival.

Mrs. Van Clief achieved nation-
wide notoriety several years ago
at her trial for murder of her husband, Dr. Glenn B. Kirkwood, veterianarian and radio announcer. It was then she earned the descriptive phrase by which she was widely
known—"the tiger woman."

Police last night attributed the
murder to Mrs. Van Clief because
the revolver was found near her right hand. A more careful analysis of the death scene revealed,
however, that Van Clief had apparently shot her through the head,
and then turned the gun on his
own heart.

The note addressed to "Ida," was
held as substantiation of this.

Mrs. Van Clief's first husband was John A. MacAvoy, a rug designer. She divorced him and married Dr. Kirkwood, a veterinarian
and radio lecturer. He was stab-
bed with a carving knife in the Kirkwood home, Queens, in August,
1928. Mrs. Van Clief said he had fallen on the knife during a quarrel.

After her acquittal Mrs. Van
Clief said she was through with
"men for life" but she married
Van Clief, cafe owner, last October.

PENNSGROVE, N. J., Aug. 28.—
Salvatore Martell, 47, lost his life
when flames destroyed their home
and his wife was severely burned
today.

Martell was the father of nine children. His body was found in
a doorway leading to his children's room. His wife, Jackie, 45, is in a serious condition in the Wilmington General Hospital.

The woman was injured, when
she leaped from the second story
of their home. She suffered a fractured leg and severe burns about

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Fourteen
persons are dead throughout Britain today as the result of a terrific
heat wave, which followed close
on the heels of winter storms
which lashed the coast and caused
heavy damage to shipping.

The thermometer hovered around
92 degrees, an almost unprecedented head for this country, and there

FACES LIFE TERM

Conviction of the kidnapping
charge filed against Claude Dil-
ner, 27, accused abductor of 10-
year-old Betty Ann Foster of Val-
paraiso, Ind., carries a mandatory
penalty of life imprisonment in
jail at Valparaiso, has indicated
he will probably plead guilty. The
girl was found, unharmed, with the
farm hand at Elkhorn, Wis.

Robinson And Dawes Be-

M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker
and friend of President Hoover,
and Henry Dawes, of Chicago, brother of Ambassador Charles G.
Dawes, were being prominently
mentioned today to succeed Roy
A. Young, of Minneapolis, whose
resignation as governor of the federal reserve board was accepted
by the president late yesterday.

Young, who will relinquish office
Monday, will become governor of
the federal reserve bank at Boston. It was stated at the White House.

President Hoover praised Young's
record, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon likewise paid tribute to Young's ability and his administration.

As governor of the reserve
board Young's salary was $12,000,
and his reason to Mr. Hoover for
resigning was that he must increase his income. His salary as
governor of the reserve bank at Minneapolis, his last private post,
was said to have been three times
that of the government post. While
his salary at Boston was not an-

ROBINS AND GIANTS TANGLE IN SERIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Rob-
ins and Giants tangle here this afternoon in the second of that important series which may decide
second place in the National League and figure, too, in the pennant winning, if the Cubs continue
to lose.

William Watson Clark, who
argued himself out of the game
yesterday, may start again today
for the flock, opposing Hubbell.

Heavy hitting won for Brooklyn
in the four-game series opener, 7
to 2.

THIN PEOPLE PREFER FUNERALS

Thin people get the most fun out of funerals, according to Dr.
L. Logan Clendening, author of "The Human Body," the most popular medical book of the century, and writer of "Diet and Health" for
THE GAZETTE.

"Fat people are more likely to be able to accomplish their tasks
more easily," says Dr. Clendening. "Therefore they are cheerful, jovial, get through with their work in a few hours, look back on it
with pleasure and are ready to begin a party at halfpast four. They like marriage feasts and christenings.

"The thin ones like divorces and funerals; you will find them
comforting the misunderstood wives or arranging the flowers. The heavy ones like poker; the thin ones golfing."

AMERICAN GUNBOAT EXCHANGES MACHINE GUN SHOTS WITH REDS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—A fifteen-minute machine gun
duel between Chinese Reds and the American gunboat Panay
shattered the rural quiet of Wusueh, Hupeh province, today.
Although hundreds of bullets hummed through the air
no casualties were known to have occurred on either side.
The Panay continued her voyage to Hankow and Shanghai
after the skirmish.

In Hunan province, meanwhile, Communists again appeared within ten miles of Changsha, slowly advancing towards the city.

SWEDES WILL SEND GUNBOAT TO RETURN EXPLORERS' BODIES

pedition

LONDON, Aug. 28.—A dramatic
tribute was paid to the first mar-
tyrs of polar explorations today
when the Swedish government ordered the gunboat Svenskund to
proceed to Tromsø, Norway, to
bring back to Sweden the bodies
of Salomon Auguste Andree and his
two companions.

Thirty-three years ago, this same
ship proudly carried the three ad-
venturous explorers to Spitzbergen,
from where a balloon was to carry them on their attempted flight
across the top of the world.

The gunboat will await arrival
at Tromsø of the sealing ship
Bratvaag, which suspended sealing
operations in order to deliver the
bodies, equipment and precious
diary of Andree to a waiting party. The bodies and expedition
remains will be placed aboard the
gunboat after brief ceremonies at Tromsø and will be transferred
to Stockholm. A national reception is being prepared by Sweden.

According to reports received
here, the Norwegian naval fishery
inspection ship Michaelsars will leave Tromsø Monday with a
group of Swedish embalming specialists aboard. They will meet the Bratvaag at sea and embalm the
bodies of the three explorers to assure preservation.

Several other vessels bearing
newspaper correspondents and photographers also left port seeking
the Bratvaag in order to secure information on the discovery from
Dr. G. Horn and his companions.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—They
were looking for the body of Captain Ester today to give him a true sailor's burial.

Ester went down with his ship,
the freighter Neches, after seeing
his twenty-four men rescued after
a collision with a steel scow in
the narrows off Fort Wadsworth.

mass of tons of iron pipe which
the gallant skipper ordered off the
ship the last ten members of the
crew who attempted to free him.

Edward Carey, chief engineer,
told how he tried to unmesh the
captain from the network of knot-
ted rigging and the pile of iron
pipe.

"He told me to never mind him
but to look out for myself," said
Carey. "The ship was sinking fast.
He said—'Goodbye'—and then I
jumped."

"When the crash came the skipper didn't look out for himself. He was everywhere seeing that all the
men were getting off."

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—An inquest
was begun today into a grade-crossing crash which took a toll of five
persons killed and two injured
when a freight train on the Indiana Harbor belt line demolished
an automobile last night.

The dead: Charles Cincenas,
driver; Mrs. Madeline Grozinski;
Mrs. Anna Sawicky, mother of three girls who were killed or injured; Emma Sawicky, 3; Olga Sawicky, 9. Ruth Sawicky, 8, was reported near death with a broken
back and fractured skull.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—The
names of fifty-six would-be gam-
blers who were rounded up late
yesterday in four raids on race
gambling establishments, were added to the police docket today, as
the clean-up campaign conducted
eers, gamblers and other undesirables.

Charges of operating places for
recording wagers were placed
against three of the men who were
taken into custody yesterday. The
remainder of the group were taken
to police station and released on waivers.

BANKER ACCUSED

Said to have confessed embezz-
ling $140,000 from the Northern
Trust and Savings Bank of Ham-
mond, Ind., and $71,000 from a loan
association of the same city, Bolshaw Sallie, (above), was held in bonds of $100,000. Sallie is secretary and treasurer of the bank.

Immediate Relief Is Offered Through
BancOhio

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—Plans
to extend credit to drought stricken
members of the Ohio Farm Bureau
and the Grange were going forward
today, following an announcement which was made yesterday
by C. A. Dyer, legislative representative of both organizations.

Dyer said that the farmer could
not wait on governmental action
and that immediate steps would be
taken by the BancOhio Corporation
to relieve the farmer.

According to the new plan, paid-
up members of the Grange and
Farm Bureau will be extended
credit on a six-month plan. "The
form of credit will be a note at 6
per cent for six months," Dyer
stated in making the announcement. "The notes must be signed
by three persons, at least two of
whom must be landowners."

The money loaned will not actually change hands, Dyer explained. The farmer will merely
give his note for things which he
purchases through the business
agents of either of the agricultural
organizations. Two hundred thousand dollars is already available
under this new credit plan, Dyer
said.

class of 179 graduates at the commencement exercises of Kent State
College which will be held tomorrow in the college auditorium. Of-

EDITOR CYNIC SURRENDERS BACHELORHOOD

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 28.—
Henry L. Mencken, author, editor, and noted bachelor iconoclast, and his bride, the former Sara Powell Haardt, writer, of Montgomery, Ala., were honeymooning today, presumably in Canada.

They were married unexpectedly yesterday at the Episcopal Church of St. Stephen the Martyr by the Reverend Dr. Herbert Parrish, formerly rector of St. Luke's Church here, but now a resident of New Brunswick, N. J.

When the engagement of the couple was announced about three weeks ago, the ceremony was set for September 3. The entire literary world was surprised when it heard the cyni-
cal bachelor had decided to de-
sert his brethren.

Only the immediate families
of the bride and bridegroom
were present at the ceremony.
The bride was given away by
her brother-in-law, Charles Wickliffe Stevenson, of Cincinnati, a summer resident of

Block Plot

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—
Extraordinary precautions
were taken today by the Argentina government here to frustrate a possible coup by
political opponents of President Hipolito Irigoyen.

Machine guns and mounted
police carefully guarded all
approaches to the executive
mansion, while officers were
reported under orders to hold
action.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, President Irigoyen received the Argentine war minister at his private residence for a brief
urgent conference, after which all
members of the cabinet were summoned to the president's chambers.

News of the extraordinary meeting spread through the city and
large crowds gathered outside the
president's home during the early
hours of the morning. The newspaper La Prensa, which gave first
details of the widespread military
preparations to stem a possible
coup, declared two trainloads of
troops were being held in readiness at La Plata, 30 miles distant,
for an immediate summons to Buenos Aires. At the moment of
dispatching this message, there
were approximately 100 armed con-
stantes and a detachment of mounted police stationed in the vicinity
of President Irigoyen's home. It
was reported the commanding officers of all regiments had been ordered to remain at their posts
pending developments.

It was unofficially stated the
preparations were taken partially
as a result of the strike of 3,000
employees of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company,
owing to fears opposition elements
might use this situation as a cover
for their activities.

the $50,000 love theft suit brought
against him by Mrs. Cora Brecken-
ridge 26, ex-wife of Cecil Checken-
ridge, Ross Brothers Electric Co.
employee, as a "form of political
blackmail," Kyle Ross, state legislator, declared today that he "will
be prepared to deal with this
ridiculous charge."

Mrs. Breckenridge's suit charges
that "false, scandalous, and de-
flamatory" words used by Ross induced her husband to become
alienated from her and to file suit
for divorce.

The petition also alleges that
Ross called on Mrs. Breckenridge
at her home in the absence of her
husband and "wrongfully and
maliciously attempted to induce
and entice her to have illicit relations with him."

Charging gross neglect, Brecken-
ridge was granted a divorce from
his wife on August 12. He was
given the custody of their two
children, Kyle Ross Breckenridge,
5, and Ada May Breckenridge, 7.
The Breckenridges had been married eight years at the time of
their divorce.

SAILORS SAVED BY SWIMMING 8 HOURS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—
Three sailors from a foundered
ship staggered out of the surf here
today after swimming eight hours
from the time their lifeboat over-
turned.

Clad in tattered trousers and
shirts, the trio barely reached the
beach when their knees doubled
under them and they fell exhausted.

They were huskies from Halifax,
Nova Scotia, and told a tale of a
terrific storm and a sinking ship

GOVERNOR SLAIN

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—A
mob assassinated Governor Ricar-
do Luna of the province of Tacna
in Peru when he refused to offer
allegiance to the newly established
Lima government, according to reports received here.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 28.—Os-
car Lendenian, 19, of Cleveland,
was seriously injured here today
when a roadster in which he was
riding overturned after crashing
into another automobile. He was
removed to Fairmount Hospital
where it was revealed he had received a fractured skull.

In Charge

LIMA, Aug. 28.—Peru functioned
under a new government today,
headed by Lieutenant Colonel Luis Sanchez Cerro, "father of the Arequipa revolt."

Emulating King Carol of Rou-
mania by staging a spectacular arrival in the capital via airplane,
the country's "man of the hour,"
gracefully accepted the wild ac-
claim and immediately assumed
charge of formation of a new government. Simultaneously, it became known that the junta earlier
in the day had resigned, leaving Peru temporarily without a guiding
head.

Cerro wasted no time in putting
forth his bid as the next strong
man of the republic by requesting
the oath of allegiance from all
army officers. This was pledged at a huge demonstration and gathering in the public square before the government buildings, where thousands sang and toasted the end of
the eleven-year "regime of terror."

Shortly after his installation as
head of the state, Cerro issued a
manifesto promising the punishment of those "who have usurped
public funds" and appointed a ministry composed of military leaders
and civilians.

SMITH CONVICTION REVERSED BY ORDER OF APPEALS COURT

Point On Tech-
nicity

JEFFERSON, O., Aug. 28.—The
tide in the battle for the life of Tilby Lafayette Smith, ex-trucking
contractor of Ashtabula, who is
now in Ohio penitentiary awaiting
execution for the murder of his
wife, today had turned in favor of
the convicted man, following the
reversal of the common pleas
court decision for conviction by the
district court of appeals here yesterday.

Smith had the constitutional right to waive jury trial, the appellate court judges declared in handling down their decision. Instead,
Judge Charles R. Sargent of Ashtabula County common pleas court, declined to accept the waiver and ordered trial by jury. Smith was convicted July 18.

The possibility that the case will go to the Ohio supreme court loomed today, when County Prosecutor Howard M. Nazor announced that he would appeal to the higher
court against the reversal of the
decision by the appellate court.

This appeal, it is understood,
would automatically halt the re-
trial which the reversal demands.
If the higher court upholds the re-
versal, retrial will be mandatory.

Smith's attorneys, Dennis T.
Dunlavy and Carey Sheldon, argued for the reversal of the conviction before the court of appeals Monday. The decision was withheld until yesterday.

The two attorneys also will de-
fend Mrs. Maude Lowther, 22,
quarter-blood Indian girl, in her
trial for the murder of Smith's
wife, Clara, 28, next month. The
state charges that Mrs. Lowther,
reputed paramour of Smith, fired
the lonely Saybrook Center Road,
near Ashtabula, last May 29.

FORMER XENIA GIRL IS PASSENGER WHEN TRUCK STRIKES BUS

Miss Geneva Smith Injured In Crash Near
Lebanon

Miss Geneva Smith, 25, Peebles,
O., former teacher in the first
grade at Central Building received
cuts and bruises when a Dayton,
Lebanon and Cincinnati bus in
which she was a passenger, was
Light Co. truck between Dayton
and Lebanon Wednesday morning.

Miss Smith had spent several days
Mrs. Carl E. Wilkin, N. West St.,
and was on her way to Cincinnati
to meet her sister when the accident occurred.

Miss Virginia Stein, 21, Glencoe
Ave., Dayton, was the most seriously hurt of the passengers, receiving concussion of the brain, a
fractured nose and lacerations on
the neck. Miss Edna Sumner, 26,
Park St., Dayton, suffered bruises
and abrasions about her body. The
to Blair Hospital, Lebanon, where
their injuries were treated. Miss Sumner was released from the hospital late Wednesday afternoon
and Miss Smith was expected to be
removed from the hospital to her
home in Peebles Thursday afternoon.

The accident occurred when the
bus, driven by Harold Aggar, attempted to pass the truck, which
contained a load of telephone
poles. As Aggar started around the
truck one of the poles swerved and
rammed through the right side
where the three young women

FOUR BOYS DIE IN LANDSLIDE

OWENSBORO, Ky., Aug. 28.—
Four young boys were killed late yesterday when they were buried beneath several tons of gravel on a hillside quarry near Bremen.

The victims are: Ezra Vincent,
10, and R. H. Vincent, 15, J. C.
Shanks 11, and Raymond Shanks,
13, brothers.

The bodies of the four boys
were recovered an hour and a half later by fifty workmen who witnessed the tragedy. Howard Vincent, older brother of two of the dead boys, escaped.

Gassed; Battle To Save Victims

DENVER, Aug. 28.—Physicians today were waging a
desperate battle to save the
lives of several victims of
chlorine gas after twenty-six
persons, including thirteen
city firemen, were overcome
when a poisonous cloud of
of the Denver Fire Clay Co.
late yesterday.

Forming from a leak in a gigat-
on railway tank the poisonous gas
cloud swept through the plant,
driving 120 panic stricken work-
men before it. Twelve men, a girl
stenographer and thirteen firemen,
the entire roster of Engine Company Number 10, were overcome
a few minutes after they arrived
on the scene.

The victims were taken to Denver General Hospital, where all
were reported to be showing symptoms comparable to soldiers gassed
in the World War. The conditions
of several are said to be critical.

The leak in the huge gas tank
was stemmed by W. Gibbs, a
workman of the Clay Company,
who donned one of the firemen's
gas masks and closed the valves in
the pressure gauge from which the
stream of poison liquid was shooting, instantly transformed into a
gas cloud on contact with the atmosphere. The leak started as
workmen were transferring the
gas in liquid form from the large
tank into smaller tanks.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—An attendance records at the Ohio state
fair, which is being held at the
state fair grounds here this week,

ernor's day." Governor Myers Y.
Cooper will make his official tour
of the fair grounds, accompanied
by his military aides and a small
party of friends.

Wednesday, which was "Farm Bureau and orange day," brought
out the largest crowds of the 1930
fair so far. The attendance was being 80,141, as compared with 87,
622 a year ago Wednesday.

The necessity for the construction of a new poultry barn on the
fair grounds was announced yester-
day by Governor Cooper after he had made a four-hour "inoculation" tour of the exposition. The governor also indicated that a new
grandstand might be constructed
within the next year or so.

REJECTED SUITOR SHOTS GIRL, SELF

DAVID WARFIELD      DAVID BELASCO

By PAUL SHINKMAN.
Central Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—A kindly faced old gentleman stepped nervously before the curtain at the Belasco Theatre the other evening. He wore a black suit of clerical cut, a priestly collar and an abashed smile. . . . A strange figure in this world of grease paint and foot-lights.

Yet the silver-haired old man actually belonged more to that world of theater than did any one of the blasé first-nighters who were there to greet him. For he was David Belasco, 71-year-old Patriarch of the American Stage, and dean of its producers. . . . And he was once more exercising his cherished prerogative of opening Gotham's new theatrical season. "Dancing Partner," by Frederick and Fanny Hatton, from the Hungarian of Alexander Engel and Alfred Grunwald, was the play.

PICTURESQUE FIGURE

But the drama of the old gentleman wearing the priestly collar made the play of the evening look pale in comparison. Perhaps Mr. Belasco, standing on the stage of his own theater, was thinking of those early boyhood days in San Francisco when he sold newspapers and of how he became a stage super, then a call boy, then an actor of small parts, then a property man, then an actor, and then—at the age of 19—stage manager of the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco.

It was "La Belle Russe" that brought the young Belasco to New York.

pocket, worked in monkish silence in his curious cloistered studio.

MAKER OF STARS

"There are a million stage-struck women in this country," the maker of stars said in 1900, "I know their capacities at a glance. If they lie to me, I can still tell. . . . There are women who are better actresses off the stage than on it."

Fortune smiled upon the young producer from California. With great éclat, his handsome Belasco Theater was opened the evening of Sept. 29, 1902. . . . a drawing room theater, designed to be the imposing theatrical home of Mrs. Leslie Carter, first and perhaps greatest of the Belasco-made stars.

The indomitable Belasco pushed on. Feuds, law suits, temperamental actors were but passing complications. "Even a shoe-maker must have temperament," he confided to his public in 1904. "Actors are like instruments; it takes some one to find the right note."

To be sure, there was that melancholy prediction of the same year—1904. "The stage of America is doomed," said Mr. Belasco to the newspapers one day. He added that he could see not a ray of light on the horizon. . . . that the outlook was getting darker and darker. . . . the trouble being that "the intelligent public is ignored by managers."

Still, a quarter of a century later, silver-haired Mr. Belasco is still with us. And so long as that is the case, the outlook will not be "getting darker and darker."

This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

DAMP MUSIC

IT seems as though there are handicaps and disadvantages to every profession and that of a member of a jazz band is no exception. Members of the Bob Adair-Lee Little Orchestra realized this Wednesday evening while performing at the dance in Shawnee Park pavilion. Because of the dampness of the atmosphere in the park Wednesday evening orchestra members were bothered with "reed trouble." Reeds in the saxophones, clarinets and other instruments were broken much to the chagrin of orchestra members. Despite this handicap the frivolity of the dancers was not marred.

GIRL KNOWN HERE IS RADIO SINGER

MISS VIRGINIA KARNS

Five years ago Miss Virginia Karns, formerly of Dayton, left Chicago Musical College and went to work as understudy to the leading lady in "The Student Prince" in its Chicago run. Today Miss Karns is one of the most popular members of the staff of radio station WLW, Cincinnati. Xenians are interested in Miss Karns' success as she is well known here, having often visited at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Hughey, Dayton Ave.

Following the Chicago run of "The Student Prince" Miss Karns played leads with musical stock companies in New Orleans, Kansas City, Baltimore, Lexington, Ky. and various other "show towns." An audition was arranged for her at station WMAC, New York, and she was immediately signed with that station.

Recently John L. Clark, general manager of the Cincinnati station, and Henry Thels, well known orchestra leader, heard Miss Karns at WMAC and she was signed with the Cincinnati station.

Xenians will be able to hear Miss Karns in solo numbers over station WLW on Tuesdays at 11:15 a. m. and on Mondays at 6:30 p. m. She is also heard in other programs often appearing with the Crosley Players.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LOSING TO GAIN — He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.—Matthew 10:39.

ADVICE OF AMERICANS

A veteran foreign correspondent of the New York Times comes home to discover that Americans, while apparently not fully recognizing the influence of their material power on world events, are inclined to overestimate the respect paid abroad to their moral preachments. The nations of Europe, according to Mr. Edwin L. James, adopt a purely critical attitude toward America and Americans. They appraise us pragmatically. Our size, our wealth, our actual and potential military and naval power, our economic resources and commercial aggressiveness are to Europe very real things, which must be reckoned with; but the old world is merely amused by the pretension that we can teach it anything worth while in the way of culture or morals.

A shocking statement, Americans will say, who have not forgotten the Macedonian cry for American moral leadership which Walter Hines Page relayed from Europe in his letters to Woodrow Wilson in the darkest days of the World War. Shocking to our national vanity, without doubt; and the shock is not softened by the fact that it is the considered conclusion of a trained observer, who has spent more years in London than Ambassador Page had months, when the latter wrote to his friend in the White House that America had only to assert moral leadership of the world to attain it. After the war, as Mr. James points out, a prostrate Europe was willing to receive our advice, as long as it was wrapped up in financial assistance; but that is now changed. Countries no longer in sore need of American capital are under no necessity of taking American advice on how to order their lives. They laugh at it.

Why shouldn't they? Outside of exploiting the natural resources of a continent which God gave the Indians and our ancestors took away from them, we have done little enough. Are not we, who have yet to prove that we can govern ourselves with reasonable success, a bit presumptuous in advising other and more ancient peoples how to govern themselves?

Whether we are presumptuous or not, an enlightened self-interest ought to warn us of the danger of thinking that our advice will be regarded abroad as more than, at best, a manifestation of enthusiastic youth. Assuming that the old world is influenced by our fresh young idealism is dangerous. The desperate flattery that accompanies appeals for American gold cannot safely be mistaken for a promise to be guided by American advice. We may better wake up now, than later, to the unpleasant but saving fact that in this cold and practical world, a nation's moral influence on contemporaneous events is measured exactly by its ability to enforce its morality.

The game of "rummy" the members of the Fairmont (Minnesota) Recreation club played to bring on rain, seems to have broken the drought, and probably was as effective as any other incantation would have been.

It seems to be the theory of some of our penologists that if a person doesn't like to stay in prison, he ought to be let out, because otherwise his temper may become spoiled.

This moderate weather probably is only the calm before the hot blast that will come about the time school re-opens.

The WAY of the WORLD

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Nearly twice as many persons are taking home study courses as are in attendance at all the colleges and universities in the country. Columbia, Chicago university, many other institutions, offer educational chances at your own door.

NOTHING BUT

The reason few of us get anywhere worth speaking about in this brief life is that we have no powers of concentration. A reporter asks Helen Willis Moody whether she is interested in the new Tom Thumb golf ball. She says: "I do not play golf, I am nothing but a tennis player." Most men and women who have achieved outstanding successes would say: "I am nothing but a writer; nothing but a soldier; nothing but an astronomer; nothing but a manufacturer; nothing but a lawyer."

Too bad it has to be so, but it is the only way. One must concentrate. One must pay the price.

ONE THING

Speaking of nothing but, one reads in the Detroit News: "And St. Paul said, 'This one thing I do,' and went on to tell how he devoted his entire energies and life to proclaiming a message that he considered worthy of all his efforts. A great man that Paul; he might have been a university professor in Tarsus, 'no mean city,' or might have risen to a place of influence as a Roman citizen, establishing contacts between the Roman government and the Jewish people so difficult to govern. In that case he would have been forgotten with most of the men of his generation. But he joined the nothing-but and became immortal."

"And so might the list be lengthened with the names of all the great specialists of the world—Galileo and Luther and Newton and Columbus and Washington and hosts of others."

THE BIG IDEA

Let's not worry if the universe is so big we can't grasp it if the idea is so big we can't understand. Let's be glad life and the universe are not so small and commonplace we CAN understand them. As Fossdick says: "I would rather live in a world where my life is surrounded by mystery than live in a world so small that my mind could comprehend it."

LEARNING TO INVEST

California university students have a course in learning to invest without losing in the market. The student who should get a perfect mark in that course is the one who says the best way for the young man to invest is to put his money into a savings bank.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126 Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

STAGE DIRECTIONS

A Correction: Directions on the stage always are considered from the actor's angle, facing the audience.

HAS ANY PRESIDENT ever been elected to the senate after expiration of his presidential term? Andrew Johnson, seventeenth president, was elected to the senate from Tennessee as a vindication of the attempt to impeach him while president.

Controlling Electricity Can you tell me what department of the government has control over electricity?

The Federal Power Commission regulates the interstate transmission of electric power. The Bureau of Standards does electrical research work.

French Beans Are any French beans raised in the United States? Generally speaking, no, unless for experimental purposes. French beans are grown in India.

The Former Kaiser Please advise the correct name of the ex-kaiser of Germany. William Hohenzollern II.

Lead Pencils To settle an argument will you please state what kind of lead is used in lead pencils? There is no lead in a lead pencil. The so-called lead is, in reality, graphite, a manufactured and not a mined substance.

Oldest Poem What is the oldest poem in the English language? "Beowulf," an epic of the Celts and Saxons who first invaded the British Isles.

Harold Lockwood Is Harold Lockwood still in the movies? Harold Lockwood died of influenza in 1919.

Television What are the fundamental principles of television? Television is accomplished much in the same way as photography. The photo-electric cells or electric eyes, as they are popularly called, pick up images and flash them into a transmitter. The receiving set which reproduces them is usually a revolving disc with small perforations. It operates in somewhat the same manner as a motion picture projector.

World's Widest Dam Where is the widest dam in the world? The Sennar dam on the Blue Nile, near Makwar, Sudan, is 9,900 feet wide and 128 feet high. It was opened in 1925.

(NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped self-addressed envelope for each, to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington D. C.: "Who's Who in Hollywood," "Swimming," "Seeing Washington," Charles P. Stewart's treatise on "Our Government," and "The World War.")

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Carl Van Vechten has just contributed another to the year's list of Unpleasant Books about Unpleasant People. It's called "Parties," and the hero thus defines the gin-soaked wasters of the cast: "We were swine, filthy swine," he says. "We'll be drunk pretty soon and we'll get drunker and drunker and drift about night clubs, so drunk that we won't even know where we are."

"Parties" would make a splendid book to throw at a roach.

LITERACHOO

Speaking of Barney reminds me that everybody else's biography having been done, the bottom of the bag has been reached and we are now going to have Al Capone's enlightening and enlightening life story Fred Pasley, Chicago newspaperman, has written it and Ives Washburn is going to do the publishing. Fred tells me he's packed everything between the covers from the first Hand Shake Murder to the party Al threw some time ago on his Florida estate, at which the guests amused themselves by shooting at floating pop bottles with machine guns.

MEN-ABOUT-TOWN

New York's colony of out-of-town Summer students who visit the Holy City each year at this time to peruse and engage in thought, are a God-fearing, sober-serious bunch. They shun the rowdy blarneyisms that are ballyhooed as symbols of the Naughty Isle. To them, life is real. Life is earnest. Their aim is to get back home with as much dough and learning as possible.

Many of them return, years later, eminent in their particular fields of endeavor, and come to be known as "prominent New Yorkers."

The majority of New York's "prominence" is not home grown.

WASHINGTON.—If the wets can get any comfort out of Dr. Jennie Califfas' defeat (which they are bragging about), as a dry candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Nebraska, then surely the dries have an equal right to congratulate themselves (as they are doing) on Senator Morris Sheppard's renomination in Texas.

In reality it does not appear that Dr. Califfas' defeat hints at a more wet sentiment in Nebraska or that Senator Sheppard's victory suggests a bit more dryness in Texas than before.

No sensible person expected Dr. Califfas' nomination. Not a single soul, possessed of the least modicum of political intelligence, had the faintest idea that Senator Sheppard would or could lose.

THERE ARE SPOTS in the country where, even in advance of the November elections, the wets have some justification for feeling that they have improved their status—as in New Jersey—with both major party tickets thoroughly wet.

There are other spots where the dries are entitled to claim that they have rather more than held their own—as in reputedly wet Pennsylvania—which the eccentricities of Keystone State politics have deprived of any wet ticket whatever with the slightest chance of winning at the polls.

There are spots where the wet-and-dry issue still hangs in the balance—as in Illinois, with a dry Republican candidate for the senate opposing a wet Democrat—and Montana, with a dry Democrat trying to hang onto the same toga that a wet Republican is striving to take unto himself.

THERE ARE PUZZLING SPOTS also—such as Ohio—where, the other day, one party put up a very dry candidate for governor and a very wet senatorial candidate. Finally, there are spots where no nominations have yet been made—like Massachusetts—where everything is all a-jumble and due to stay that way (perhaps even getting worse) for two or three weeks more.

Nebraska and Texas are in none of these classes, however. Both of them named just the candidates the everyone looked to see their name, and in Texas, at any rate (maybe not in Nebraska), the November election result likewise already can be foretold with the accuracy of a first class astronomer announcing a coming eclipse.

CURIOSITY ENOUGH, Senator Sheppard himself, of all folk, gave indications, ahead of the Lone Star Democratic primary, of some trifling anxiety concerning his chances—probably not much, but just a little.

The senator as will be recalled supported Al Smith and was considerably criticized for it by Texas dries. His bill, introduced in congress several months ago, to make bootleggers' customers as guilty as the bootleggers themselves, was generally interpreted as a gesture which he hoped would placate these ultrabone-dry kickers.

Possibly his uneasiness relative to the dries' attitude toward him was not entirely unnatural, but it is hard to believe he was afraid the wets would be able to muster sufficient strength to jeopardize his renomination.

in Washington, but entirely out of the public eye for fully a dozen years and never of more than congressional districtwide reputation. As events proved, the senator got his normal support, after all. And why not? It could hardly have flopped to Henry, the wet—even to fluncheon the author of the eighteenth amendment.

Sheppard not only got his normal support, he got more too. Nearly all the Texas wets were Al Smithites in 1928. Recalling that Shep had stuck by Al, a lot of them (from all accounts) resolved to stick by him, as his reward—despite Henry's wet candidacy.

Upshot—400,000 ballots for Sheppard 140,000 for Henry.

THE DRIES call this a famous victory.

In dry Texas! A strong candidate against a comparatively unknown! And the former bleeding the latter of a substantial chunk of his expected backing, at that!

The mystery is: How the dickens did Bob Henry manage to pile up 140,000 votes? As for Senator Sheppard: Renominated (which means re-elected), will he or will he not be as determined as he was to make

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

NOBODY BUT NURSE

When an Ant spies warring antennae he stops right where he is and reads the signal of friend or foe. For Ants talk with their antennae and even little movement has a meaning of its own. A clever Ant can broadcast all the news of Ant Town with a few waves. And only a dumb Ant fails to understand just exactly what the signaling Ant says.

Busy took up the march, Peter at her heels. And in a short while the two pals found themselves before the nursery door. Peter, who always kept his eyes opened, saw something that excited his curiosity.

"Why are all those stones lying there?" asked he. Now it was Busy's turn to checkle. "Those aren't stones, silly. Those are the eggs that we came here to carry away!"

"Eggs!" Peter was surprised. "What in the world is that Ant doing to them? Licking them with her tongue, unless I can't believe what I see."

"You can!" Butty nodded. "However, we Ants never say Nurse is licking the eggs. We say she is giving them their daily bath. It sounds better, don't you think? Above all things, our eggs must be kept clean. Not a speck of dust must be allowed to gather on them. Only a careless nurse would forget her duty for a moment."

The nurse who was giving the precious Ant eggs their daily bath stopped her task to glare at Busy and the boy.

"It is about time someone came!" grumbled she. "Everyone went off and left me alone, and I've never been so nervous in my life. Suppose an enemy had sneaked past Sentinel and tried to steal these eggs! What could I have done! And the dust kicked up by the moving! Oh, me, oh, my, is was dreadful."

Next: "Rich Nurse, Poor Peter!"

bootleggers' customers equally guilty with bootleggers?

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Broiled Steak Baked Potatoes
Buttered Beets
Celery, Lettuce and Dressing
Baked Pears or Fresh Pear Salad
Waters Tea or Coffee

Fresh fruit used in some form makes a fine, healthful dessert for any season of the year, and especially at this time when fruits are at their best. We always think of baked apples, but seldom of baked pears; so the baked pear recipe may be new to you. You can use cream cheese to stuff the pears in the salad if you prefer. A pear honey recipe is included in today's recipes.

Today's Recipes

Baked Pears—It is easier to core pears for baking after cutting them in half. So halve the pears, remove cores, place in a greased baking dish, sprinkle lemon juice over each half, fill centers with sugar, place slices of lemon in the pan, add just enough water to prevent burning and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit until perfectly tender.

Fresh Pear Salads—One simple combination that is always enjoyed is the fresh pears with candied nuts. To make it, arrange the pared pear halves on lettuce. Sprinkle lightly with lemon juice. Fill the centers with finely chopped candied ginger and serve with fruit French dressing to which a bit of the ginger syrup has been added. Pears with finely chopped pears are also tasty. For this, prepare as above and serve sprinkled over with lemon and finely chopped mint. Use a fruit salad dressing for this also. Have you tried slicing pears and arranging them fanned shape with sections of orange, and serving with them golden salad dressing.

Pear Honey—One quart pears four cups sugar, No. 24 can sliced pineapple. Pear, core and quarter pears. Cut in small cubes, add sugar and cook slowly, until pears are soft and syrup is very thick. Now add pineapple, which has been drained and cut in small pieces. Heat again, but do not boil. Seal in sterile jars. The cans of broken slices of pineapple may be used in this, but it is better not to use the shredded variety.

Fudge Frosting

One and one-fourth cups sugar, one-fourth cup cocoa, one-half cup milk, two teaspoons butter, one-half teaspoon flavoring. Sift sugar and cocoa together and boil with the milk to the soft ball stage, 234 degrees. Remove from fire and add butter. Cool. Add flavoring and beat until it is thick and creamy.

Leave the oven door open a few moments after lighting, while the moisture condenses. This will prevent rust, and again to cool off after baking is done.

Vaccinate To Prevent 'Fall' Fever

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TYPHOID FEVER is another disease which belongs to the middle ages, to the dark ages. We have already this week described smallpox, which is no longer a pestilence of the modern period. And diphtheria, which is still among us to some extent, although we hope it is fighting its last fight. We hope and think—nay! we almost know, diphtheria is in its last line of trenches. Typhoid fever used to be called autumnal fever. It was particularly prevalent in the late summer and autumn. Thirty years ago about this time, the hospitals would be clearing out their beds for the cases of typhoid fever that were sure to come in to fill them. At least half the beds in a hospital in America 50 years ago were filled with typhoid patients. From 15 to 18 per cent of them died. All of them were invalids for a period of at least three months. Typhoid fever was no respecter of persons. It claimed the young, the strong, the weak, the old, the middle-aged. And now it is no more. It is hard to find a case in a hospital now to demonstrate to students.

Its disappearance has been gradual. It has been due to several causes. It has gone through several stages. The cause of typhoid fever, the typhoid bacillus; was discovered by Professor Eberth in 1880. This discovery initiated our conquest of the disease, because with the study of its habits it was found that it was largely a water-borne disease.

The typhoid bacillus, Eberth found, entered the body in drinking water, sometimes in milk, sometimes in oysters, sometimes from food over which flies had walked, but always in material contaminated by water. And boiling the water will kill the typhoid germs. So when people learned that and began to boil all the water they used, typhoid fever began to disappear.

Then city health departments started to make a daily inspection of the drinking water. When typhoid bacilli are present they notify the population through the papers, and warn people to be sure to boil the drinking water before use. This public inspection still further reduced the number of cases of the disease.

Lastly, individual inoculation began to be practiced. During the Boer war, about 1899, Dr. Almroth Wright showed that by injecting a person with three doses of dead typhoid bacilli, an artificial immunity was established. Dr. Wright proved that if he inoculated one regiment of soldiers with typhoid vaccination the number of cases of typhoid in that regiment was almost nothing compared to the number of cases in a regiment not so inoculated.

This practice of typhoid vaccination has become very widespread in the general population. It has been the third most important means of preventing typhoid.

To show how effective all these measures are, let us recall the actual figures as collected by the government. In 1900 the death rate from typhoid fever was 36 persons per 100,000 population; in 1927, it was five persons per 100,000 population.

Now the question naturally arises in any parent's mind—shall I give my child the typhoid vaccination? Won't boiling the water be enough? Won't the supervisor of the drinking water by the board of health be enough protection?

The answer depends on how efficient your board of health is. Then the question arises, will your child always drink only the water you have prepared for it? Water containing typhoid bacilli may be clear and sparkling, without a particle of odor.

Then the board of health may notify you that there is typhoid in the water, but in the meantime you or your children have drunk the water and been infected with typhoid.

My advice is, by all means to have the children vaccinated against typhoid before starting for school. It takes three injections, given hypodermically, about a week to five days apart. Children stand the injections with fewer reactions than adults.

Every soldier in the United States Army has to have this set of inoculations before he enters service. A colonel of the medical corps of the army told me that before the practice became compulsory, he never took a regiment out on fatigue duty without expecting to be court-martialed before he returned, on account of the number of cases of typhoid that would develop in spite of the fact that the orders were that the men should not drink anything but boiled water, they would crawl away and drink from wells and cisterns. Thus many of them got typhoid.

Now, with universal compulsory vaccination, they can drink any water they like. There is no typhoid fever in the army.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: As a young man 23 years of age I have been keeping company with a girl 21 for the past two years. We really love each other very much."

"During the time I have had numerous jobs and have not made any headway. In fact, I have worked at very low salary, so that I have to borrow money to live."

"I love her, I hate to lose her, and have often told her not to see me steadily, so she can have a chance with others. She refuses to listen to this, and is really holding on, sticking with me."

"My future looks black and shows no sign of getting anywhere. What could I do? I don't want to lose her, but feel bad to continue going with her."

"No wonder you feel discouraged. Worried, when you can not even pay your own way, let alone take your girl friend out or plan on getting married. You say nothing of what advantages of education you have had, and why your career is so far behind so disheartening. Is it that work has been scarce and you have been laid off on that account? Or haven't you been able to make good in the jobs you have had?

What kind of work do you like and do well? Do you need training for it? School will be open soon, and you could go to night school and specialize in something in which you could do well—some line into which you could put your heart. That is the way to make a success of work.

Don't let yourself think that circumstances alone have been the cause of your lack of success. Make up your mind that it will be your own fault if you do not succeed. That is very important. It is always the failure who admit it.

You must have something worthwhile about you to keep a nice girl true to you in spite of repeated discouragement.

And don't borrow money to live on, even if you do not make much. Find ways to live on it if it is any way possible, until times look up with you, and save as much as you can. In this way you can reward the faith your girl friend has in you.

Treat Hair To Retain Curliness

By GLADYS GLAD

MANY GIRLS have experienced a loss of most of the natural wave or curl in their hair upon going to a dry climate. Others who hadn't suspected that they possessed a bit of wave in their hair, have acquired almost curly hair in moist, humid climates.

If you have found the wave in your tresses gradually disappearing, by all means take steps to urge it back into your hair.

If you have only a slight wave in your hair, and you wish to retain it, avoid drying your hair with artificial heat. Such heat is very harmful curly hair. Hot irons used on naturally curly hair are also most destructive to it.

If you are trying to keep your natural wave, don't comb your hair while it is drying. Dry it by shaking it out with the hands. When it is almost thoroughly dry, set the waves where you want them, using your fingers scissor-fashion. Then place combs in the hair to insure the permanence of the waves. Allow the hair to dry completely before removing combs. And don't use too much vigor when you first comb out the wave. Then, every day, when you dress your hair, press the waves back into it with the fingers.

Bobbing has been the reason for the loss of natural wave in many a head of hair. But it has also been the reason for the appearance of more waves than when the hair was long. Long hair, drawn tightly over the ears, and drawn in a knot at the nape of the neck, trains the hair to straight lines. The looseness of the bob is conducive to the return of a wave, unless the bob is combed tight to the head and the hair given no freedom.

Dry Skin

Mrs. R.: Bleach the hairs and dark skin on your upper lip. If your skin is very dry, a bit of nourishing cream applied nightly will prove beneficial. Use a mild astringent in place of the ice rub.

Brown Spots

Bleaches

Louisa L. and Peggy: Lemon juice and diluted peroxide are excellent bleaches. Apply a bit of cold cream after using either bleach, to combat their drying tendencies.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each, to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

Emmett Tuhey Retains Caddy Golf Crown

Brilliant Round Gives Him Ten-Stroke
Victory

Emmett Tuhey retained his title as caddy champion at the Xenia Country Club by adding a brilliant 79 Wednesday to his previous card of 86 for an aggregate score of 165 in the special 36-hole match with Ralph Bickling and Donald Smith with the 1930 caddy golf championship of the club at stake.

The three caddies played the final eighteen holes of their match Wednesday. Ralph Bickling shot an 84, which, with his 91 of Tuesday, gave him a total score of 175, ten strokes behind the defending champion, Donald Smith had an aggregate of 177 strokes as he shot an 87 Wednesday and a 90 on the previous day.

Tuhey shot unbeatable golf Wednesday and his card of 79 was only nine strokes over par for the two rounds.

Play in the first and second flights of the annual caddy tournament among the less accomplished youthful golfers also reached the final round Wednesday.

Wagner reached the finals of the first flight by eliminating Halstead, 2 up and 1 to play, while Custer survived his semi-final round match, defeating LaMar, 5 and 4.

In the second flight, Wilbur Acton beat Fletcher, 2 and 1 in the semi-finals and will meet Fuller, who won his semi-final round match by default.

First base—Langs: F. Cain (175); "Happy" Davis, (500); All-Stars: Huston, (358).

Second base—Langs: Joe Smith, (438); All-Stars: Prof. Reale, (377).

ALL-STARS NAME BILL LE SOURD CAPTAIN; PLAY PRACTICE TILT

Assembling for the first time, the all-star softball team recently chosen by the managers of local National and American League softball teams to play a five-game series with the Lang Chevrolet Co. nine, starting Friday this week at Cox Field, held its initial practice at Washington Park Wednesday night.

The players at first appeared to have difficulty with the lively inside seam ball, particularly in the first few innings of a practice game played with a Dayton N. C. R. team, but grew more accustomed to the "rabbit" sphere as the abbreviated game progressed and won an easy victory.

Not all of the seventeen members of the picked squad were able to be present because several were members of the Graham Paints and Carroll-Binder Co. teams which played off a postponed game at Cox Field the same evening with the inside seam ball in use.

The N. C. R. team introduced a little Hawaiian pitcher who threw the fastest ball seen in this locality this season, but inability to get the ball over the plate reduced his effectiveness.

The all-star squad will hold its second and final pre-series practice at Washington Park at 6 p. m. Thursday and an effort is being made to have all the players present this time.

The players got together and elected Bill LeSourd, Downtown Country Club outfielder, as captain for the coming series.

Umpires—Marshall, F. Cain and Turnbull.

The contest was played with the bases sixty feet apart and an inside seam ball instead of an outside seam ball was used.

Lloyd Downey, former Carroll-Binder Co. pitcher, held his old teammates to nine hits and although he was hit safely in every inning he twirled shutout ball after the second round.

Carroll-Binder combined three hits with two errors to score three times in the first stanza and added another in the second on a triple and an out at first.

Graham, however, had assaulted Jacobs. Carroll-Binder pitcher, who formerly hurled for the Paints for five hits and six runs in the first inning. The winners tallied two more runs in the second, one in the third and fourth and five more in the sixth.

The contest was limited to seven innings.

Hurst, third-baseman, pounded out a triple and three singles in five times at bat for the winners, while L. Cope knocked a home run, double and single. Kersney contributed a brace of triples and Mulburn a triple and single. Gene Leahy, playing shortstop for Carroll-Binder, had a perfect day at the plate, singling three times and walking once. Peters, center fielder, bounced a home run over the center field fence in the first inning with one aboard, one of the longest hits of the season. Line-ups:

WILL REORGANIZE BOWLING LEAGUE

The Senior Business Men's Bowling League, composed of three six-man teams in past years, will be re-organized for the coming season at a scheduled meeting at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Recreation Parlor.

The principal question to be decided by bowlers in this league is which night of the week will be most suitable to them to occupy the alleys. In past years teams in this league have bowled on Wednesday nights, but this season it is believed the choice will rest between Tuesday and Thursday nights, either of which is declared to be more convenient to a majority of the members of the competing teams.

RETIRING PRIEST GIVEN PURSE
BY CONGREGATION WEDNESDAY

Members of the congregation of St. Brigid Church bade farewell to their retiring pastor, the Rev. David Powers at an impromptu affair arranged in his honor in the parochial school auditorium Wednesday evening.

The tribute was arranged as a surprise to the Rev. Father Powers, who left Thursday for Dayton to assume charge of his new assignment as pastor of St. Joseph's Church. The esteem in which the retiring pastor was held by his congregation was expressed by Henry Walsh, chairman of a committee that arranged the affair.

Mr. Walsh was warmly applauded when he said that the retiring pastor had endeared himself to members of his charge and that all had benefitted by coming under his influence during the last six years. He concluded by presenting to the Rev. Father Powers a purse of $440 while a gift of $50 was given to the priest's aunt, Miss Julia Maher, who has been his housekeeper during his regime here.

The gift of money was collected during a hasty canvass of the congregation during the last few days, in order that the Rev. Father Powers would have some material expression of the esteem in which he was held by his flock. In expressing his thanks, the Rev. Father Powers said he had been extremely happy in his pastorate in Xenia and credited the loyal support he

COMMISSION WILL RESUME LIGHT CASE

To accept or not to accept the latest proposal of the Dayton Power and Light Co. relative to commercial electric light rates in Xenia—that is the question which is again expected to be considered at the bi-monthly City Commission meeting Thursday night.

The Xenia Retail Merchants' Association has placed itself on record since the last commission meeting to the effect the recent offer of the power company is eminently unsatisfactory to local business men, and for that reason the advisability of condemning the distribution system of the Dayton company within the city limits may again be discussed.

REPORT NEW CASE OF TYPHOID FEVER

Greene County's second typhoid fever victim to be reported within the last few weeks is Herman Bowermaster, S. Galloway St.

Young Bowermaster contracted the malady this week and is under the care of Dr. W. T. Ungard. It has not been determined what was the contributing cause.

The other case in the county is that of Homer Moore, son of Mrs. Bessie Moore, Lower Bellbrook Pike, who has been suffering from the disease several weeks but is now improving.

MAN CHARGED WITH FRAUD IS ARRESTED

Charged in an affidavit filed in Municipal Court by W. J. Oglesbee, Xenia, with obtaining money under false pretenses, Ed Stewart was taken into custody Wednesday night by Deputy Sheriff Geo. Sugden, four miles southeast of Waynesville, was returned to Xenia and is being held in the County Jail, pending arraignment before Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday.

Oglesbee charges in the affidavit that Stewart, representing himself as a buyer and haler of straw for The Hagar Straw Board and Paper Co., Cedarville, obtained 600 bales of straw valued at $50 from him last August 15, but that he subsequently discovered that Stewart had no authority to buy straw for the Cedarville firm. He claims Stewart defrauded him in that he obtained the straw for his own personal use.

PLEADS GUILTY AND DRAWS LIQUOR FINE

Entering a guilty plea to a charge of possessing liquor, William Lewis, Beaver Creek Twp., was fined $100 and costs, the minimum assessment, by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Wednesday. Lewis was arrested some time ago following a raid conducted by L. A. Dabbs, county road patrolman, and two prohibition agents from Dayton, in which a quantity of home brew beer was said to have been confiscated. Several previous liquor cases against Lewis are still pending in the courts of appeal.

OLD EX-CONVICT SAYS MODERN CRIMINALS ARE MOST VICIOUS

International News Service—Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—A new type of criminal—a vicious, slinking, murderous type—“quick on the trigger”—has sprung up in America, according to Al Hagan, “the Rambler,” who knows a thing or two about criminals. Hagan, now a lecturer on prison reform, is an ex-convict who served a “stretch” of fifteen years in Folsom prison, California.

Hagan, a stocky, well built man of 61, whose hair is turning gray around the temples, rambled into the “City Room” of International News Service and presently found his way to this reporter’s desk. You’d never suspect, looking at him for the first time, that here was a man who spent fifteen years of his life in “the big house” and who once staged one of the most sensational jail breaks in the history of Folsom.

“Yes sir,” said Hagan when he got to talking, “the criminals of today are a dangerous lot—a good deal more so than the burglar, the safe cracker, the confidence man and the pickpocket of my day. I’m not saying they weren’t hard characters ten and twenty years ago but these criminals of today make them seem tame by comparison.”

“Today it’s a common thing to hear of them putting someone ‘on the spot.’ There are more assassinations today than ever. And racketeering, of course, is to blame. They shoot their enemies down without giving them a chance. “The new criminals range in age from eighteen to twenty-six years of age. That’s much younger than in my day. Many of them are well educated and come from good homes. These educated fellows make the most vicious kind of criminals. Some of them are potential gang leaders; others are equipped with the nerves to carry out orders to ‘shoot to kill.’ They go after bigger game than did the confidence men and second story workers of my day. Some of the old types of crimes have almost gone out of existence.”

Hagan switched the conversation to the numerous prison outbreaks that have occurred in the various states in the last year. He was inclined to blame society for the serious situation that has menaced the tranquility in America’s penal institutions in recent months.

Hagan declared that “hate waves” against society develops among the men inside the prisons that are operated contrary to the dictates of common sense and humanity. Any wrong society does is repaid in full, he averred.

The criminal, he said, should be put in prison of course, but it should be proved to him that the

READ THIS FIRST:

Kitty Wilmot, secretary to Elery Goss, assistant Gordon Platt, Goss' confidential man, with whom she is daily falling in love, in running down a "leak" in the office; Altee Goss' chief clerk, asks her to marry him. She does not accept. After meeting Boss Kelliher at a party given by Hilda, phone operator, she is later accosted by him, and he asks her to work for him at a thousand dollars a month.

Next day in East Side Natatorium she defeats a professional swimmer in an impromptu race, but is shocked when Platt tells her a gambler, Tom Gayle, won a five thousand dollar bet on her and indignantly rejects money Gayle offers her through Platt.

Wanting to help Platt, but not ready to tell all she knows of Altee, Kitty asks help of Spike Harner, who suggests a private detective agency, where she is shocked to find Gayle, the gambler who bet on her, in charge. But she is happy to learn that Platt returned his money; and falls asleep that night dreaming of the kiss Platt never tried to give her.

Her home-town lover, John Spurgeon, arrives unexpectedly in New York; Kitty stages a party for him with friends; she sees Platt, who cuts her dead.

Tormented by jealousy she speaks to Platt as she dances by him; he denies his own name. She refuses a proposal from John. Next day Platt tells her he was doing secret work and did not want the suspect to know his name; Kitty hears for the first time of Gila Mine stock. Taking important dictation from Goss, she lays a plan to foil the information theft, learns that Spurgeon is investing in Gila Mine, which she knows will drop, and resolves to help him, secretly.

To get money to help him, she determines to swim as a professional, to win $2,000, and persuades Fatty Hemming, stock broker, against his better judgment, to sell Gila stock for her; the same stock John has bought.

To get money to help him she swims as a professional and wins. She persuades Fatty Hemming, stock broker, to sell Gila stock for her, the same stock John has bought.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 30

Honesty is a state of mind. It never occurred to Kitty to use all of the thirty-six hundred dollars Mr. Gayle had handed her and have Fatty sell as much Gila Mine as that amount would margin.

John had put up two thousand

dollars and bought one hundred shares. She put up two thousand dollars and sold one hundred shares. That by increasing her sale she might make more money for herself did not cross her mind, more than it occurred to her that she was wrongfully using confidential information in selling any stock.

She heard ten minutes more of protests from Fatty Hemming. Luckily, Fatty regarded her as "only a stenographer" and swallowed whole her foolish story of selling on the advice of a fortune teller.

A little later she had reason to be very thankful that she had a little extra money.

Kitty promptly forgot she was interested in the stock market. Mr. Goss kept her very busy, and when she had a moment for thought, she spent it on phrasing her confession to Gordon. For she could no longer avoid belief that in some way her friends were implicated in the office leak.

Some one had read those false notes in the waste paper basket! Some one had thought they had found out—that Gila Mine was going up. And that information was known to Fatty Hemming!

How it had worked! Kitty couldn't imagine. Saily didn't read short hand; neither did Altee. Kitty's "pot hooks" were court reporters' style; she knew of no other stenographer in the office who used her system. She reflected there were plenty of court reporters in New York, and whoever had taken her discarded, but falsified notes could easily have them translated.

She feared greatly the effect of her confession to Gordon. He had trusted her, yet she had not told all she knew. He had admired her stand about the "split" on Gayle's bet; in his absence she had accepted what she had refused in his presence. If only she could tell him first; if only Altee had not recognized her and spread the news around the office. No one mentioned it, but every one was busy, and she didn't know how to ask. Of course, even if Altee had seen her, he wouldn't know about Gayle and the "split." But they would certainly guess.

If the stock market did as she expected, she would have to tell Fatty something—anything—to persuade him to make John think he hadn't instead of lost.

Although her thoughts were very chaotic and disturbing. She was out duty at three in the afternoon. On the street newsboys cried "Extra, Extra!" Buying one she saw the flaming headlines: "Stock Market Slump! Gila Mine Shares Bear Raid," and knew that she was right.

Hailing a taxi she flew for Fatty Hemming's office. She had difficulty in convincing the office boy that she could see "the boss." But a dollar bill succeeded where persuasion and a deep dimple failed.

She found a worried man trying to answer three telephones at once, writing orders, putting an O. K. on others, and generally finishing a wild day.

"Hello, Kitty!" he threw at her over one shoulder. "With you in a moment—yes, closed twenty-nine and a half—no, sorry, sold out."

In a few minutes he turned to her.

"Your da—darned fortune teller knew more than I did!" he confessed, ruefully. "Talk fast, girl; I'm busy as a one armed man with the hives."

Kitty put a little hand on his arm.

"Friend of mine?" she asked. "Of course—what do you want?"

"My winning and his loss are a state of mind," she cried. "I've six hundred dollars to give you. I want you to tell him you sold for him, instead of buying—and give him my sixteen hundred as a profit!"

Fatty protested. It wasn't ethical. He couldn't lie. It would cause all sorts of trouble if it were known. John would have to take his loss like any other investor. She could give it to him herself—"Fatty, dear! You wouldn't put me in that embarrassment! I'm not asking you to lose anything; just to help a poor old woman get her sight back. Won't you, for me?"

She turned on the dimples. He still looked undecided.

"Please, Fatty, dear—I'll kiss you if you will!"

"Oh, damn!" cried Fatty. "You don't have to bribe me!"

"Will you, then?"

Fatty gulped. "I'm a helluva stock broker!" he answered. "Yes!"

As the office boy came in Kitty jumped away guiltily. She had been about to make good her "bribe." He laid a card on Fatty's desk.

Kitty read it before Fatty did. "He mustn't see me—he mustn't!" she whispered. "Promise, Fatty!"

Fatty showed Kitty out a side door. She stole out of the offices guiltily, hoping no ill wind would bring John Spurgeon to see her departure. But her heart sang for the first time since she had signed her amateur standing away and risked Gordon's displeasure.

"With his original two thousand—my two thousand!—and the sixteen hundred, he'll be able to take his mother to Vienna—and all I paid for it is a race! Oh, I know, Gordon, I know!" She moaned in her heart. "You won't approve. You'll say I ought to have borrowed it. But I can't help it. I had to stand by my friend—"

The day was bright and clear. The sun shone warmly, although there was a tang in the air. Kitty walked up Fifth Avenue, her head in the clouds, her heart happy, perhaps the happier because what she had done meant a real sacrifice. People she met were smiling. All seemed well with the world. John was protected. She had paid the debt she owed his kindness and consideration when her father died. Deep down was the thought that it was easier to say no to a lover who looked at her with longing eyes, when she was out of debt to him. Had it not been for her, he would have lost the little with which he had come to New York.

Feeling hungry she dropped in one of those restaurants which dot New York, in which, if one is lucky, one can have a little private side booth alone and eat good food at reasonable prices. A girl who has just given away thirty-six hundred dollars has a right to an expensive lunch if she wants it!

Over the partition between her booth and the next she heard low voices. The tones were familiar, if somewhat muffled.

"But I'm not willing to wait!" came a woman's voice. "You've put me off long enough. My sister is suspicious—"

"Please, now, don't!" came an obviously masculine voice. "It's so necessary, dear! I can't help it, but just a little while—I should have cleaned up today, but something went wrong."

"Oh, I'm so tired of excuses!" came the girl's voice. "It's always some reason."

"Hush! Don't talk so loud, Baby—"

Baby! Kitty froze to a greater attention.

"Don't you Baby me in public—I won't hush! I will tell! You've either got to announce it or I will! And I won't have you fooling another girl any more and saying it's for business reasons!"

Kitty rose, her face flaming. She was no eavesdropper. She intended to leave without being seen. She did not even ask herself what it was Baby wanted announced. She knew, now, without being told, that there was something wrong. Whoever the man was was evidently something to Baby. Could he be the unknown man Bert had watched Baby with in the restaurant?

And who was the girl being fooled?

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Theater

The tiff between Constance Bennett and the Pathe Studio is over and her picture, "Sin Takes a Holiday" is going into rehearsal at once, it is said, with Kenneth McKenna, formerly of Broadway, as her leading man.

McKenna is the player whom Mary Pickford kept under contract for weeks to insure having him for "Secrets" and was the only member of the first cast to win the approval of the star.

Miss Bennett is being popularly acclaimed for her performance in "Common Clay," which showed to Xenia fans this week. At Loew's

Jack Oakie is still a little dizzy from success. He says: "I got in the movies on a fluke, and it's a fluke I'm a star. If this racket should end tomorrow, the movies wouldn't owe me a thing, I'm satisfied."

Did you know the talking motion pictures caused the investment of $200,000,000 in the United States alone?

Twenty Years '10- Ago -'30

Mayor William Dodds, John W. Prugh and C. F. Ridenour, president and secretary, respectively, of the Commercial Club are in Cincinnati today attending the formal opening of the Ohio Valley Exposition.

A clever entertainment was given Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Santmyer, W. Third St., by a dramatic club, composed of the neighborhood, and was highly enjoyed by forty invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Adair, J. F. Orr, Charles Weaver, Geo. Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harner and Agnew DeHaven were among Xenians who were in Wilmington Sunday to attend the final day of the Clinton County Centennial and home-coming there.

Misses Sarah and Eleanor Williams and Nelle Rinck arrived home after a delightful pleasure trip down the St. Lawrence River.

Constance Bennett

State Theater in Los Angeles handkerchiefs were given to female patrons as they entered the door. Many exhibitors booked their next picture sight unseen, after seeing "Common Clay."

Photoplay classes the seven best pictures of the month as follows: "Raffles," "Old English," "On Your Back," "Manslaughter," "The Dawn Patrol," "Our Blushing Brides" and "The Singer of Seville."

The magazine rates the best individual performances of the month as follows: Richard Barthelmess in "The Dawn Patrol," George Arliss in "Old English," Ronald Colman in "Raffles," Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in "Our Blushing Brides," Claudette Colbert and Frederic March in "Manslaughter," Ramon Navarro, Dorothy Jordan and Renee Adoree in "The Singer of Seville," Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Little Accident," Milton Sills in "Man Trouble," Lowell Sherman in "Lawful Larceny," Billie Dove in "Sweethearts and Wives," William Powell in "For the Defense."

Another of the players in "Hollis" has cashed in on his performance. United Artists has just signed Edward Everett Horton to play a role in Douglas Fairbanks' new picture, "Reaching for the Moon." Horton's salary has jumped into big figures in the last year and it is rumored that he gets $20,000 from Joseph Schenck for the four weeks on the Fairbanks film.

ALLEGED BANDIT IS HELD HERE ACCUSED

Identified by Frank R. Powers, part owner of "The Ideal Service Station" at Fairfield, as one of the bandits who held up his filling station Sunday, August 17 and compelled him to hand over a pocket-book containing personal papers and $49.26 in cash, Eugene S. Smith, 25, of 2315 Woodside Ave., Springfield, is being held in the Greene County Jail awaiting arraignment before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday on a charge of highway robbery.

An affidavit charging Smith with robbery was filed in Municipal Court Wednesday by Powers. Smith, arrested at Springfield, was returned to Xenia Wednesday night by Deputy Sheriff George Sugden and lodged in the County Jail.

Following the hold-up, Powers, who also owns a filling station in Dayton, visited that city and looked over the "roughie's gallery" at the Dayton police department in an effort to identify the bandits who held him up. Failing in this, he was referred to police records at Springfield. Several days ago at Springfield he was able to identify a picture of Smith as one of the men he charges figured in the robbery at Fairfield.

Acting on this information, Springfield police arrested Smith for investigation. Powers returned to Springfield Wednesday and is said to have confirmed the identification of Smith.

In view of the fact the robbery took place in Greene County, Powers came to Xenia and filed an affidavit against Smith in Municipal Court here. The Fairfield station is operated on a partnership basis by Powers and Emerick.

Sixteen Greene County Boy Scouts will take part in the first Camparall to be staged by Region Four, Boy Scouts of America, at the Ohio State Fair grounds at Columbus, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

These boys, eight from Xenia in Troop 41 and the same number from Troop 54 in Osborn, will form two of the three patrols representing the Tumsech Council at the Camparall.

The other patrol representing the Tumsech Council will be the Lion of Troop 4, Springfield under the patrol leadership of George Hopper, an Eagle Scout, who was a member of the junior staff of Camp Miami this summer.

Scout Executive H. O. Portz, of Springfield, will accompany the boys to Columbus where he will be chief observer for the Camparall for the last half of the week. He is also a member of the Camparall committee of Region Four.

The patrols from the local county under the direction of Scoutmaster Carl Pramer of Troop 41 and Scoutmaster Clarence Day of Troop 54, will leave Thursday noon. They will pitch camp at the Camparall plot, located at the northeast end of the Fairgrounds, Thursday afternoon. The Camparall is designed and will demonstrate the various phases of Scoutcraft. Competition against standards rather than time is one of the distinctive ideas that will be impressed upon the minds of the boys. First aid, signaling, map-making, judging, knots, fire by friction, handicraft, cooking and camp life will be some of the projects in Scouting that will be experienced by the boys.

It is planned to have at least 250 Boy Scouts from all over the state to take part in the Camparall.

MASONS HERE ENJOY

One hundred and fifty members of the Masonic Lodge and their families attended the annual picnic and outing of the order held at the Masonic Temple Wednesday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon a ball game between "fats" and "leaves" was played with the "fats" emerging victorious.

Other contests and features had been arranged and included a nail driving contest in which prizes were awarded Mrs. A. D. Chambers, Mrs. J. C. Denham, Mrs. Roy Buckles and Mrs. LaVerne Fulton. An amusing feature of the program was a "quick dressing" contest in which men were required to dress in women's attire and the women had to don men's clothing in the least possible time. Prizes went to A. E. Faulkner, Watkins Frame, Mrs. A. D. Chambers.

A horse shoe pitching game was played and W. J. Davis was winner in this event. Prizes in all the events had been donated by Xenia merchants.
